Wilson Gives French Treaty to Senate

APPEALS FOR EARLY ACTION

Would Provide Prompt Aid to France in Case of Attack by Germany

By International News Service.

Washington, July 29.—President Wilson today submitted to the Senate the text of the Franco-British-American pact, and, in an accompanying message, urged its early ratification for the reason that "America's debt to France has not yet been fully repaid."

Referring to the assistance rendered America by France in the days of the revolution, the President declared that "Nothing can repay such a debt."

"It is one of the fine reversals of history," he added, "that the other nation should be the very power from whom France fought to set us free."

ARRANGEMENT UNDER LEAGUE.

In submitting the pact the President explained that its object was to provide for immediate military assistance to France by the United States in case of any unprovoked movement of aggression against her by Germany, without waiting for the advice of the council of the League of Nations that such action be taken. It is to be an arrangement, not independent of the League of Nations, but under it.

The President's message follows:

"Gentlemen of the Senate:

"I take pleasure in laying before you a treaty with the republic of France, the object of which is to secure to that republic the immediate aid of the United States of America in case of any unprovoked movement of aggression against her on the part of Germany.

"I earnestly hope that this treaty will meet with your cordial approval, and will receive an

Silverware Stolen from Lydig Home in Lenox

Lenox, July 29.—Silverware valued at between $500 and $600, and a valuable gold watch, a keepsake, were stolen from the Stuntzer home here of Mrs. David Lydig of New York, by a mysterious burglar who entered during the night. The discovery was made late this forenoon by a maid. Both family and servants are at a loss to know when or by what means the house was entered. The discovery was made while all the local police were at court testifying against alleged burglars who entered the Rose Whistler house July 20.

NEW PLAN FOR DEFENCE OF BOSTON

Assistant Secretary of War Benedict Crowell, upon his return to Washington, took with him today plans for a new defence of Boston Harbor and adjoining coasts.

The secretary has always held the impression that railroad artillery was sufficient to defend the coasts of New England, but upon consultation with Brigadier-General John W. Ruckman, commanding the North Atlantic Coast Artillery District, at army headquarters, plans were submitted which have convinced him that the Ruckman plan of defending New England coasts is the best that has yet been suggested and will be brought to the attention of the Secretary of War.

These plans have been under consideration for some time at army headquarters. General Ruckman, who is an expert in coast artillery, has by his method of defense made it impossible for an enemy to approach within forty miles of the New England coast.

This plan of General Ruckman favors the dockies of ocean liners at Montauk Point, Long Island, as that point in the event of war could be protected easily from Block Island, where guns of sixteen-inch calibre will be placed and these will also protect Newport harbor.

Secretary Crowell was very much pleased with the plans of General Ruckman and will urge them their acceptance.

The Boston Chamber of Commerce will ask General Ruckman some time in the Fall to present his plans for defending the New England coast.

28 FIGHT TRESPASS HOLDUP

Dorchester Aroused by Detention of Commuters for Using Short Cut

The district known as Old Dorchester was up in arms today over the rounding up of twenty-five men and three boys by officers of the New Haven Railroad and the installing of them off to Station 10 on Morton street in the patrol wagon on charges of trespass, because they took a short cut in leaving the Dorchester station for their homes last evening.

All respectable citizens, the men resent the humiliation and disgrace and the loss of time due to their forced appearance today in the Dorchester Court, where the cases were deferred pending the number of summonses required each citizen there to appear to answer the trespass charges on August 5.

As the passengers left the train at 6:30 many were detained by a squad of nine railroad policemen under Captain A. D. Sullen and Lieutenant John J. Cullen. The gates were to be filled three deep and as they were prevented from going to their homes, the officers claimed that in taking the cinder path and cutting through a hole in the fence at Jones Avenue they were trespassing and violating regulations enforced by the Station Agent Committee of the railroad, which was trying to reduce accidents due to carelessness.

HAD BEEN CHECKING UP.

Many of the detained citizens claim they were held up as they stepped from the train and that the railroad policemen had no right to assume that they intended to take the cut.

FORGERY IN BURIAL PERMIT

Starling Revelations in Case of Undertaker Marks—Pelletier May Prosecute

The name of Mrs. Henriette Angell, widow of a Boston police inspector, was forged to a burial permit presented by Frederick H. P. Marks, whose undertaker's license was revoked, it was learned today.

This discovery was made following the declaration of District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier that he would prosecute Marks, provided he found the law had been violated.

The information was secured by Fred L. Davis of the health department, who is conducting an investigation into the activities of the Ellis-Mellery Company, No. 1686 Washington street, of which Marks was the owner.

England Misinforms America on Ireland, Says Cohalan

By DANIEL F. COHALAN,
Justice Supreme Court, New York.
Copyrighted, 1919, by Otis F. Wood.

ARTICLE 1.

The great trouble with the mass of the people of America on the question of Ireland is their viewpoint on the Irish question. Without intending to be unfair, they take for granted the justice of the English view. They find England, largely the mistress of the world and in many ways admitted to be the leader of modern civilization, in possession of Ireland.

They find, according to histories mainly written by England's friends, that she has been thus in Ireland for centuries, and they take it for granted that she must be there legally; that she is there as a matter of right. They take for granted, too, that in the evolution of civilization, in the making of history, that conditions required her to be there, and that England's claim to the overlordship of Ireland is a valid and just claim.

Beef Sold to Army at 22 Cents Costs Civilians 90

Greater Boston housewives and tired business men who feel they are being gouged daily by meat dealers in the excessive prices charged for meat should read this.

The packers are selling beef by the carcass to the United States Quartermaster's Department here at twenty-two and twenty-three cents a pound. This is the price of the meat delivered in Boston, including the freight charges. The meat is to be used to supply the forts and troops in Boston.

The same meat costs Boston consumers in retail stores: Sirloin, seventy-five to eighty cents a pound; rump steak, ninety cents; round steak, fifty-five and sixty cents; corned beef, thirty-five to forty cents a pound.

The packers claim they don't get the exorbitant profits. So do the retailers.

15,000 CARMEN IN CHICAGO STRIKE

By International News Service.

Chicago, July 29.—Fifteen thousand Chicago street and elevated railway employes are on strike today and the city's electrical transportation is tied up. Not a car, elevated or surface, has turned and all elevated and surface cars are locked up in their barns.

The strike came like a lightning bolt to Chicago. Reports late yesterday indicated that negotiations that have been in progress several weeks would be successful and the strike averted. Thousands of Chicagoans awoke this morning expecting the cars to be running as usual and found themselves unable to get to their places of work or business.

So confident were many that the strike would be averted that Governor Frank O. Lowden, after a conference with carmen's officers and employes, left the city thinking a basis of adjustment had been reached.

But the break came when an attempt was made to bring the compromise proposals before the union leaders and heads of the street railway companies had agreed before the union men. In a veritable bedlam of hisses and cheers the carmen voted down the offers made them, and by acclamation voted to go on strike at 4 o'clock. The meeting turned into a bedlam, and before more than the first few sections of the compromise agreement had been read to them they howled down the speaker, shoved their own spokesman forward and voted to strike. Eight thousand men attended the meeting.

The compromise agreement which the men rejected would have given them wage increases to sixty-five cents an hour; an eight-hour day with time and a half for overtime and other adjustments affecting hours and conditions of labor. The original demands of the men were for eighty-five cents an hour, an eight-hour day, a six-hour Sunday and a six-day week.

Except for the matter of salary increases, it is probable that an agreement would have been reached but the men stood firm in their demand for the 85 cents an hour wage. The present wage is 47 cents an hour.

500 WOUNDED IN CHICAGO CONFLICT

By International News Service.

Chicago, July 29.—Twenty-nine dead were reported by police stations, hospitals and the coroner today, and others were dying among the estimated 500 wounded in race riots that began Sunday among negroes and whites on the South Side, and spread to the heart of the business district early today.

Nine new deaths and at least fifty injured were added to the grim toll of the disturbances as the result of fresh outbreaks in the early hours today.

With the situation admittedly growing hourly more alarming, Governor Frank O. Lowden returned hurriedly to the city and offered the Mayor and chief of police the services of 4,000 militiamen for instant military duty. Adjutant-General Frank S. Dickson, after an inspection, reported the troops ready for immediate action.

Veterans of the police force declared the militia would have to be called out before nightfall and that troops would have to be used to guard the downtown business streets.

"Bring the militia into the loop," cried one of the officers, "if they don't, there will be a massacre on State street."

At this time a mob of 1,500 men [illegible] some of them soldiers and sailors in uniform, had been rioting for more than three hours in the downtown section. As a result one white man and one negro had been shot to death and a dozen beaten, mauled and stabbed.

From the South Side, where residents underwent a night of flaming terror, reports of fresh flashing between the races had been reported.

Later a platoon of them came into the business section on a similar mission.

Leaders among the Chicago negroes today declared the shooting was being done by negroes recently from the South. Three of these were arrested and one of them carried a shot gun and fifty rounds of ammunition.

Throughout the negro section today colored men, women and children could be seen on the streets, on porches and peering through windows. Many of them had not slept at all during the night and were watching warily for approaching mobs. White men in the residential districts fringing the black belt also were on watch for the approach of any colored men.

DICKSON FIRED ON.

Militiamen awaiting any call to service are equipped with 100 rounds of ammunition to the man and are at their armories with rifles ready and bayonets fixed. Machine guns also are a part of their equipment. Early today snipers fired upon Adjutant General Dickson and two high police officers as they made a motor trip of inspection through the South Side.

A throng of white men early today surrounded the Federal Building where hundreds of negroes are employed. Twenty-five special policemen attempted to disperse the mob, and several persons were injured in the resultant fighting. The negro clerks were finally taken from the building under police protection.

The situation in the business district is so serious that Captain Edward Conroy of the central police station prepared early today to appeal for troops unless more policemen become available for duty on the downtown streets. Orders were issued to all patrolmen to "pick up" all negroes in the downtown section, as it was feared the presence of the ... would inflame the crowds.

At an early hour twenty-five negroes, some of them protesting against detention, had been taken into custody by the police and locked up in the central station as "refugees."

One unidentified negro, encountering the mob near one of the largest downtown office buildings, started to run in terror. He was shot and instantly killed.

POLICE UNION BACKED BY A. F. OF L.

Question of Organizing to Be Settled at Meeting of Social Club

The issue of a Policemen's Union will be settled at a meeting of the Boston Social Club to be held soon, it was learned today. The meeting will be in International Hall, Roxbury.

Supporters of the idea of a union of policemen say they have the backing of the American Federation of Labor. They declare that not merely will a union for better wages and working conditions be formed, but certain practises on the part of higher officials in the department will be stopped.

Those agitating the union are said to be particularly averse to the custom of some captains in changing the beats of officers. It is claimed that this privilege is used by captains in some districts to punish followers of political leaders unpopular with the department heads.

It is also maintained the custom is sometimes allowed merely to annoy unpopular officers and force them to travel long distances from their homes to reach their territory.

R. I. TROLLEYMEN REJECT REVIEW BY COURT

Strike Arbitration Must Be Final, Declares Union at Providence

Providence, R. I., July 29.—Officials of the striking Carmen's Union here, in a long statement issued today, declared they would not go into court with their troubles, that finances had nothing to do with the settlement of the strike and that they were willing to arbitrate but saw no reason why the board should report back to the court.

"The question of the financial condition of the company was never a matter of dispute between the carmen and the receivers," the statement announced, "and therefore is not a matter of arbitration. The court gave the receivers the power and authority to submit the question to the Board of Arbitration, but there is no necessity for the court, since it has given this authority to arbitrate, to insist the result of arbitration be subject to the approval of the court, for if such were the case there would be no such thing as arbitration."

MAY ASSESS ALL UNION MEN.

Referring to financial matters the officers of the union said:

"According to the receivers' report, 2.73 cents of every nickel goes to labor and we presume that has reference to all employes from president down to and including the Secret Service Department. Then there must be about 2.27 cents which goes for something else, presumably materials and other expenses necessary to the operation of the road. It would cost more than the income of the road to pay expenses of running it, and, therefore, the corpus of the road must be liable for its success."

It was reported in union circles today that the 30,000 union men in Providence would be called on to contribute $1 a week each for the support of the striking 2,700 carmen.

WOMEN TO RUN CARS.

Two thousand girls will be recruited to break the strike of the local street carmen, it was reported here today.

"There is no reason why women and girls cannot perform the work satisfactorily," said a railway official. "If the court orders the operation of the cars, work will be offered to anyone willing and capable to operate them. This, of course, includes girls."

The receivers of the Rhode Island Railway, the carmen of which are on strike, refused to make any comment on this report.

They stated that they had nothing to say in regard to the situation today, either, in answer to the statement of the carmen's union. The question, they declared, is now in the hands of the court, and they are simply awaiting its decision, to be announced tomorrow.

It is believed in local railway circles that the court will be asked to grant a decree for the operation of the cars, so that anyone interfering with the operation of the cars would be in contempt of court.

The receivers stated that they had made no efforts to get any strike breakers, and it is believed that if the court grants the decree of operation the road will invite any of the strikers who so wish to return to work.

The rumor that an outside corporation is considering placing two hundred motor busses in the city is discussed by both sides with no definite information forthcoming. The receivers say they have heard such rumor while union officials say the city government would not allow the operation of motor busses.

TRESPASSERS TO FIGHT ARREST

Dorchester People Stirred by Round-up for Short Cut on Railroad

... short cut instead of going downstairs to Woodrow avenue. A large number of women and girls were not molested.

The railroad officials explained that they had been checking up trespassers for some nights past and that those detained were in the list. Captain Sullivan said the only way to discourage persons from using the tracks at the station was by prosecution.

At the station house, hungry and late for supper, the herd of indignant passengers were forced to give their names and addresses and were then allowed to go home. The accused claim that officers placed hands on them, and that they were technically arrested, but the railroad policemen claim formal arrests will not occur until the summons have issued.

TO FIGHT CASES.

The crowd, held up, reinforced by indignant families and neighbors, have formed a protest committee and have engaged counsel to fight the case. They say the railroad and Elevated are working hand-in-hand to discourage too liberal use of the railroad to the exclusion of the trolley cars.

Those carried to the station house were Leroy E. Thayer, No. 30 Dyer street; Alfred E. Gray, No. 2 Ufford street; Helina Gozendsen, No. 154 Ballow avenue; Joseph Russell, No. 5 Myrtle place; John Steniss, No. 4 Massasoit avenue; George S. Getrick, No. 53 Mora street; John A. Fat Girls Fade Into Sylphs Under Roller

Boston women, seeking to restore the sylph-like lines of their figures, are resorting to the rolling machine to reduce their fat. A feminine member of the Boston American staff surrendered herself to "a trussed, piped, pulleyed clothes-wringer," as she describes it. She was drubbed by the rollers. It was quite an experience. Read her story.

By HAZEL CANNING.

When it comes to getting thin.

Now there's dieting. All you have to do is to go without bread, and potatoes, and sweets, and meat, and milk, and—well, when dieting you can have all the lettuce to eat that you want. Yes, there's dieting, to get thin.

Then there's exercise. Simple. All you have to do is to get up at four, and run a few miles, not more than twenty-seven, before lettuce; then run some more, then exercise in a little rubber shirt, and throw a ball in the air for six hours or so, and evening lettuce, and then all that remains to be done is to walk till bedtime. Yes, there's exercise.

But strenuous exercise, rather And hungry dieting, most generally ...

"What can I do to be thin?" asked I of the Man Who Owns the Reducing Machine.

"It's all wrong, all wrong," said he, "dieting you have to do without the ice cream and the coffee parfaits with the almonds, exercising you have to exert yourself. Which no plump woman should do. Too hard. My way is the way," said the gentleman modestly. "How about passive exercise, eh what? Passive exercise? All you have to do is to stand there, and the rolling machine will do the rest."

"The rest?" said I.

INTRODUCING THE RACK.

"Yes," said he. "It is too much to ask a lady to roll over and over on the floor ten thousand times each morning. She has to muss up her hair to roll. So we, with our machine, have brought the floor to her."

He led me into his holy of holies. I looked. There, a trussed, piped, pulleyed, clothes wringer, complicated and gone astray, run by electricity, it waited—the rolling machine—waited ready to clasp the form of woman in its wringing embrace, and squeeze tighter and firmer, and more heartily, till the fat—well, till the fat just didn't have room to stay any longer, that was all.

I clasped my hands in ecstasy. It was too good to be true. "When," I asked him, "will your—ah—delightful machine crush me to a mere bone? How soon will my figure, gaunt, yet graceful, be an envy and a jealousy to the fleshy ladies of the earth?"

The gentleman of the reducing machine held up a warning finger. "Not too soon, sister," said he. "People reduce queerly, they do. Now you may reduce, and reduce, and yet again reduce and not lose one pound."

"Oh," said I, seeing my triumph vanish.

"But cheer up. For, just the same, you will be losing your fatty cells. And your health—"

"Woman does not reduce for health alone," said I, "that new dress, three inches too small over the hips——"

"Come," said he, "our lady superintendent will measure you."

The lady superintendent did. Up and down and fore and aft, after, I should have explained, I had dressed me up in a nightie just like that one you wore when, at Sunday School, you recited "Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star," while your father applauded loudly in front.

Then, weighed, I compared my weight with the correct weight for my age. Say, at forty, weighing 250, I am only seventy-three pounds too hefty. Only seventy-three—but the rolling machine, passive exercise, floor brought up to me, with a bound my elasticity—soon those little seventy-three pounds would be saying goodby. I stepped in.

THEY'RE OFF!

"Let her go," said I, "come on, attenuation."

Followed creakings; followed myriad circlings of the wash wringer, rolling me nearer and nearer and nearer into its pounding embrace.

"It just beats it out of you," somebody said, some time ago. "Ouch," said I.

"What?" asked the lady assistant.

"I was just thinking what might happen if I should get my fingers caught in the wringer, and——"

"Rest your fingers on the arm rest," said she. "Here goes."

In a vise you were caught, while the rollers drubbed you. "Never mind," you told yourself, "this passive exercise leaves me my food. After all, lettuce—" and then you caught the sign. "Patrons will help their treatment if they give up fresh bread, ice cream, potatoes, desserts, cream soups——" It was too terrible. I groaned.

"Fifteen minutes with the roller coasters on your tummy," the lady assistant encouraged.

"Fifteen with them sideways to left, fifteen sideways to right, and fifteen backwards. We are now on the first seven minutes. One hour minus eight minutes more." She smiled angelically.

Purr, whir, grrr—the singing of the infinite was in your ears. "I pity all ... roller men," you told the young lady.

"Sleepy?" she asked, "cheer up. All you have to do is to stand there fifty minutes, and the machine does all the work."

I stood there, plotting. Looked at myself as clad in the Twinkle Little Star nightie, and saw no rapid evaporation of avoirdupois. I then decided to break loose.

K. O. FOR WRINGER.

"I might like to step to the door for a minute," I suggested.

No answer from the maiden of the band brakes. "You might give me a little recess," next, "I have neglected my knitting really too——" Three lifts to the roller was the reply.

"Oh, say," said I, "have a heart, I only have forty-five minutes of that more. Say, a woman might get too thin, if she stayed to the end. Lemme go."

"Did she let me go?" She did not. I stayed. And ached. And plotted what I would do when free. At last I was. Socrates said, just after he laid off his chains, that relief from pain was the only pleasure in life. Socrates was right.

On the street, I made for the nearest ice cream and salad place. "Two sodas," said I, "with whipped cream; salad with mayonnaise; cakes, and something with fudge sauce, to finish up."

"Our patrons," the sign rang in my ears, "will render their reducing more effective, if they refrain from——"

Angrily I tore up that paper napkin.

"Avoirdupois," I murmured softly, "as you were!"

LAWYERS TILT AND KNITTERS TITTER

Bates and Whipple Cause Ripple of Merriment at Science Church Hearing

Sharp tilts between counsel enlivened the resumed hearing today of two bills in equity in the Christian Science dispute before Judge Frederic Dodge as master in the Supreme Judicial Court. Repartee between former Governor John L. Bates and Attorney Sherman L. Whipple caused a titter in the courtroom, women knitters among the spectators suspending their work to join in the ripple of merriment.

Bates sought to introduce a record of the meeting of trustees of the Christian Science Publishing Company, held June 14, 1917. He was continually interrupted by Whipple, who contended that the record had already been introduced at a previous hearing. Bates maintained that his opponent's memory was faulty. Judge Dodge allowed the record, saying that if it had been previously introduced it would have borne an exhibit number.

"If your memory was faulty at first," said Bates to Whipple, "it may be faulty a second time."

RETORT BY WHIPPLE.

Whipple retorted with a quip about "your sanctimonious proclamation of your own particular brains," which set the court room in a roar of laughter.

A wrangle occurred when Bates, examining Edward A. Merritt, a director of the Mother Church, sought to introduce evidence on salaries. Whipple interrupted, referring to testimony at previous hearings that the directors had taken legal advice by saying:

"It is curious to see the directors taking legal advice to violate the law."

He referred caustically to the fact that the trustees of the publishing company, his client, had been criticized for similar action.

Bates rejoined sharply: "There is absolutely nothing in our position contrary to the manual."

COURTROOM CROWDED.

The courtroom was crowded as at the previous hearings, many of the spectators being women. It had been expected that Rev. William P. McKenzie, who has been on the stand the last two days of the hearing, would appear again for redirect examination, but he did not arrive, and Merritt took the stand.

He is one of the directors of the Mother Church and a defendant in the suit. Before taking the witness for direct examination, Attorney Bates read the minutes of the directors' meetings for 1917 and 1918, concerning a successor to Mr. McLellan, as important matters required a full attendance of the board. At that meeting Mr. Merritt was elected to the vacant place.

NEW CHARGE MADE AGAINST UNDERTAKER

had been placed in a grave in the Mt. Hope Cemetery, which grave was in the name of former Inspector Angell of the Boston police department. Mr. Davis further learned that Marks presented to the cemetery officials for the burial of Smith an order bearing the alleged signature of Mrs. Angell to open the grave.

Mrs. Angell told Davis that she never gave any such order, and that she knew nothing about the purchase of the grave. The body of Inspector Angell is buried in Malden.

PELLETIER TAKES UP CASE.

District Attorney Pelletier announced today that he would confer with Health Commissioner William C. Woodward with reference to possible prosecution of Marks.

Mr. Pelletier said that if he found there had been any violation of the law on the part of Marks.

Health Commissioner Woodward also announced that he would make a rigid revision of burial regulations as a result of conditions revealed by investigations made by his department.

These investigations resulted in the revocation of the undertaking license of Marks.

The commissioner said he planned to confer with cemetery trustees to devise regulations which would make it impossible for an undertaker to retain the deed to a grave site.

They are Edgar Barrett, twelve, of Westwood street; Joseph Lyons, thirteen, of Olney street, and Donald Muirhead, fourteen, of Levant street. Patrolman John Brown was complainant. As they all had previous records, Probation Officer Mair surrendered them and Judge Churchill sent them to the Suffolk School for Boys. Muirhead appealed.

Lenox Burglar Blames Carnegie's Butler for His Plight

Lenox, July 29.—It was the tight fistedness of Andrew Carnegie's butler that drove Charles Dovin of Wollaston to the life of a freebooter and made him the Robin Hood of the exclusive Summer colony here, Dovin testified in District Court today.

Dovin explained that he had been working at Quincy, but lost his money after coming here. He tried to get admitted to the presence of the Laird of Skibo to ask his fare back to Boston. And he found his way blocked by the butler, who was hard-fisted as well as tight-fisted. The butler was deaf to his appeal.

It was then, he told the court, that he turned to a life of crime. He pleaded guilty on several counts to breaking and entering in the night time. Dovin said he had preyed upon the wealthy residents for some time before he was caught asleep in the home of one of his victims.

Yanks In Paris Sober and Orderly, Says Dr. Van Allen

"I did not see one single uniformed soldier or boy drunk in Paris, nor a single act of disorder," states Rev. William H. van Allen, D. D., rector of the Church of the Advent in a letter to a Boston friend.

Dr. van Allen is at present in Paris, working under the direction of the Y. M. C. A., making addresses at the different centres of work under the Y. M. C. A.

"Of course, there are some black sheep in the army, but very few," he continues. "Some international rascals have secured cast-off American uniforms and committed crimes of violence here.

"All my French friends comment upon the height, the military carriage, the good looks and severity of countenance which mark our men. But the confusion, red tape, too frequent insolent discourtesy on the part of desk hirelings at the 'Y' headquarters in Paris, made it a place to avoid as much as possible."

WEALTHY WOMAN, SUING FOR DIVORCE, NAMES ARMY OFFICER'S WIFE

WIFE SAW HUSBAND HUGGED

Declares She Caught Him in Fifth Avenue Room With Co-Respondent

New York, July 29.—The wife of an army officer now in France stole the affections of Harry P. Stuart, of the wholesale jobbing firm of Stuart Milliken & Company, who makes $30,000 a year, according to the charge of Mrs. Rose Edith Stuart in a divorce action she has started before Supreme Court Justice Callaghan in Brooklyn.

"The co-respondent I do not intend to shield," declared Mrs. Stuart. "She stole my husband's love and affection, ruined my life and destroyed my happiness.

"During the past three months I became very suspicious of my husband's conduct in that he invited the co-respondent to my home on a great many occasions without my consent and while I would be in another room I would see them caressing.

CAUGHT THEM HUGGING.

"In fact I caught her openly with her arms around my husband.

"Such was this woman's conduct while her husband was in France as an officer fighting for his country in the belief that in this wonderful land of liberty he left a loving and true little wife, when instead she proved to be not only unfaithful but disloyal to her country."

Mrs. Stuart declared she had her husband shadowed on July 17 and that when she and detectives broke into an apartment on Fifth Avenue he and the co-respondent were discovered there.

Mrs. Stuart is twenty-six and her husband is forty-six. He denied all allegations of misconduct. The Stuarts formerly lived at No. 215 Exeter Street, Manhattan Beach.

TRIED TO SHIELD WOMAN.

"My husband said on July 18," Mrs. Stuart said referring to the day after the raid, "'You drove me to go with this woman. She was agreeable company. I want you all to know I have been spending $15,000 a year on her, still she is not satisfied. Keep Dorothy's name out and you can have everything.' He said he would do anything if Mrs. Hallenback's name was kept out of the case."

Mrs. Stuart frankly states in her petition that at Stuart's persistent solicitation she divorced her first husband in order to marry Stuart, the latter paying all expenses incident to the divorce, sending her to Pennsylvania and marrying her when the decree was secured.

"He bought me a handsome home in Manhattan Beach and a $7,000 automobile," said Mrs. Stuart. "The co-respondent, Mrs. Dorothy Hallenback, resides with her parents at No. 81 West End avenue, within a stone's throw of our house."

25 SPEECHES IN PRESIDENT'S PROGRAM

Wilson's "Swing Around the Circle" May Be Delayed on Account of Hot Weather

By International News Service.

Washington, July 29.—Unless the present extreme hot wave subsides it is possible that President Wilson may delay the start of his speaking tour until Aug. 15, it was learned at the White House today.

Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, the President's personal physician, has strongly urged that he do not attempt the trip until the weather conditions become more favorable.

It has been the President's intention to start in time to reach San Francisco on Aug. 15, the date of the arrival of the Pacific fleet, and he was to confer this afternoon with Secretary Daniels on the possibility of holding the fleet there until he could arrive.

The itinerary, it was revealed today, calls for a thirty-day tour, with twenty-five set speeches, in addition to a number of extemporaneous addresses. The strain upon the President, in view of his recent illness, would be marked, and Admiral Grayson is of the opinion that it would be better to delay the start than to run the chances of having the President's strength fail and the tour consequently curtailed.

It was made plain at the White House today that the trip was a certainty and that the President would start at the earliest possible date, regardless of any situation that might arise in Congress growing out of opposition to the peace treaty.

It was also emphasized that it was still possible that the President would get away from Washington in time to reach the Pacific coast by Aug. 15, but that it all depended upon his physical condition and the weather.

Could You Support Five on $15 a Week? Mother Asks

Fifteen dollars a week for five people. Could you manage it, dear reader? Could you even keep your living expenses down to a weekly budget of $17.82—$3.56 for each member?

Not long ago workmen in a certain craft demanded a wage increase, saying that a man could not live on $35 a week. Read this letter, which the American has received from a Roxbury mother. It speaks for itself:

"In reading our paper today I noticed that the wage board claims that a woman cannot live on less than $12.50 a week. I would like to ask the readers a few questions on that subject. If one woman can't live on less than that amount how can a woman and four children live on $15 a week? Sometimes less than that?

"I myself am one of the many who have to get along on that amount, and if someone would suggest a way I would be very pleased to know about it. Here is my itemized list of expenses:

"Groceries, $12; rent, $3.50; insurance, $.59; gas, $.50; church, $.10; papers, $.12; carfares, $1.10; clothing, ance, $.50; gas, $.50; church, $.10; self-improvement, $.00; saving, $.00; total, $17.82.

American readers please tell me how I can make it go farther. I have tried, but all in vain. You will wonder what we do for clothing. Well, I will tell you what I do. Sometimes if we have a few cents to spare we can go in some place and buy something that we can make over, or if we have anything given us we can fix that up to make it look nice.

"But when your oldest girl will say to you, 'Mamma, why can't you make me a new dress? I am tired of wearing old things,' and you know that she would love to have a nice ribbon and yet she won't ask for it because she knows she can't have it; and next comes the youngest girl: 'Oh, Mamma, when am I going to have a good dolly?' and the baby, 'Mamma, are you going to get me a big fire injin with a lot of firemens too?' and then the biggest boy: 'Oh, gee, Ma, can't I have a knife? I never have anything like other boys'—it's when those little ones come loving you for something that you know you cannot give them you will wish you had more than $15 a week.

"But let me say, I plan and scheme, I work every day and sit up most of the night, and sew and fix, and I cannot make my fifteen dollars go any farther. So please, readers of the American, answer my question if you can.

"A HARD WORKING MOTHER."

LIE PASSED TO GOVERNOR ON 'FLOGGING'

Bartlett and Others Accused of Playing Politics in Boys' School Controversy

Manchester, N. H., July 29.—Governor John H. Bartlett and other prominent State officials are playing politics with the alleged scandal at the State Industrial School, according to accusations hurled at them from two different sources today.

The lie direct was passed to Governor Bartlett by Vernon Backus, the superintendent of the school, who has attracted most of the fire in the investigation of alleged cruelties.

Superintendent Backus got unexpected support in an open letter published by Martel Theriault, former trustee of New Hampshire Institutions Board, who alleged a political clique was seeking to force Backus to make way for a man more acceptable to the machine.

Investigation of the stories that brutal floggings and other tortures were practiced at the institution threatens to become the overshadowing factor in State politics.

Mr. Theriault's letter was uncompromising in tone. The former trustee declared that excessive punishment was not administered, but that Mr. Backus' enemies, understanding the ease with which a sentimental opposition to firm and moderate measures might be built up, were putting forth the propaganda against him.

Mr. Backus in a spirited defense showed no disposition to quit under fire. He is said to be prepared to fight to a finish. "The Governor's charge is absolutely false," declared the superintendent. "His statement that I used four grades of weapons to punish boys and that I admitted it has not even a foundation of truth. I have never used but the one device and no reference to three others was made in my presence while Governor Bartlett was here. He was not here more than twenty minutes on the visit to which his statement evidently refers.

"I believe that if he could come here and really investigate, he would change his views."

Mr. Backus objects to the use of the terms "flogging" and "pounding" in referring to the punishment meted out to incorrigible boys under his care.

FISH STRIKERS GET JOBS AS SEAMEN

Help Man Vessels Recently Held Up by Strike—50 to Be Hired Daily

An alliance between the striking fishermen and the seamen on coastwise ships, who have just won their strike, was made today. By agreement fishermen out of work because of the strike will be provided with temporary jobs aboard coastwise ships through the offices of the seamen's unions.

The "entente" between the union fishermen and seamen was made public by P. G. Pryor, secretary of the Seamen's Union. Mr. Pryor expects to be able to place at least fifty fishermen every day this week, beside a number who were given employment today.

A large contingent of striking fishermen left today for Montreal, where they will be used along with professional seamen to man Shipping Board ships bound for Boston. There are nine of these ships, which were recently completed for the Shipping Board at yards on the Great Lakes.

Besides lending a hand to the fishermen still out, the seamen in Boston were today busy manning ships that have been tied up in the harbor. Eight complete crews were at their posts early today. Eight more will be sent aboard coastwise ships tonight, and by tomorrow shipping will be moving briskly. By the end of the week there will be a return to normal in shipping conditions.

The fishermen are hanging out in the hope that they may duplicate the performance of the seamen and get a settlement which will be acceptable to all. Delegate James Nickerson of the Fishermen's Union of the Atlantic, in commenting on the "incident" at the South Boston pier yesterday, when police protection was demanded by boat owners, denied the strikers had been guilty of violence.

Cheer Up, Fair and Cool Spell for Boston

This was the cheering prediction of Weather Forecaster Smith today. For two days, perhaps more, Massachusetts is to be favored with the present brand of weather, with its 10 degree decline in temperature from the sizzling heat of Monday.

Showers may interrupt the pleasant spell, but probably will not, according to the forecaster. Light rains fell in a sort of extended semi-circle about Massachusetts today, in some instances reaching the westerly sections of the State.

New England weather is living well up to its reputation for variety. Monday was hotter by two degrees in Massachusetts than in Florida. Over night conditions changed, and it was ten degrees cooler, with breezes thrown in to make life once more worth the living.

The humidity was 55, only a little lower than normal, but owing to the lower temperature was not so noticeable.

The highest temperature in New England early today was reported from Nantucket, where it was 74 degrees at 8 o'clock, while it was only 71 in Boston at the same hour. The lowest temperature in New England was reported from Greenville, Me., 54.

CROIX DE GUERRE FOR HEROISM OF PERKINS

A Croix de Guerre with palm has just been received by the parents of First Class Private Michael J. Perkins of No. 217 E street, South Boston, one of the greatest heroes of the A. E. F., who single handed, jumped into a German cement pill-box, silenced seven enemy machine guns, captured between twenty and thirty Germans and was killed by a shell while being rushed to a dressing station with a curable wound.

Perkins's father was awarded a Congressional medal (posthumous) as a result of his son's gallantry, and the family was surprised yesterday to receive a Croix de Guerre with suitable citation from the French government. Perkins was twenty-six years of age and a teamster. He was the eldest of a family of eleven children. When his body was found he had in a pocket the picture of his little sister Grace, who was born after he sailed with the 101st Infantry. His mother and father say their grief over his death has been lessened by the realization that he gave his life for his country and died a real hero.

BLOCK ESCAPE OF SLAYER SUSPECT

Montpelier Officials Investigate Plot to Free Man Held in Broadwell Murder

Montpelier, Vt., July 29.—An investigation was started today into conditions at the Washington County Jail as a result of the attempted escape of George H. Long, awaiting trial for the murder of Mrs. Harry E. Broadwell of Barre.

The authorities are curious to learn where Long obtained a revolver, cartridges, a master key, a file and a diagram which were found in his cell.

The attempt to escape from "Tracy's Hotel," as it is called, was frustrated by a trusty, who informed Sheriff Frank H. Tracy several days ago. Questioned by the sheriff, the prisoner denied any knowledge of a plan to escape and also declared himself ignorant as to how the things found in his cell came to be there. The file, he admitted, was taken from a table, but he said he knew nothing of the revolver and cartridges, as well as the key and diagram.

It is a custom in the jail to allow the prisoners to wander about practically where they will. Signs are posted on the walls in which the jail is referred to as a hotel, and the "guests" are notified that they must conduct themselves becomingly. Sheriff Tracy was one of the first jailers to adopt the so-called "Golden Rule" plan, by means of which prisoners are given considerable liberty outside the jail. He never lost a prisoner, although many of them have worked outside on the roads and in the fields.

Long, who was arrested with Mrs. Isabelle Parker a week after the nude body of Mrs. Broadwell was found, took his capture calmly and told newspapermen he would prove his innocence.

BURLINGTON FIREMEN ISSUE STRIKE THREAT

Burlington, Vt., July 29.—The members of the fire department here threaten to strike if their demands for a 20 per cent salary increase and one day off in seven are not granted. The men also favor the establishment of a two-platoon system, which is in operation in the police department.

The pay of the hosemen and laddermen is $18 a week, while that for horse drivers is $19 and for chauffeurs $21, with a small annual increase after the first three years' service.

...ment of the League of Nations provides for military action for the protection of its members only upon advice of the council of the League, requires that it be presented, only upon deliberation and noted upon by each of the governments represented, and states only if its own judgment justifies such action.

"The object of the special treaty with France, which I now submit, is to provide immediate military assistance to France by the United States in case of any unprovoked movement of aggression against her by Germany without waiting for the action of the council of the League of Nations, that such action be taken, if it should be in accordance with the principles of the League of Nations but under it.

BOUND BY SACRED TIES.

"It is, therefore, expressly provided that this treaty shall be made the subject of consideration at the same time with the treaty of which it forms a part, and that this special arrangement shall receive the significance and control of the whole and that this special provision for the safety of France is brought to force only under the application of one of the parties to it, the word of the United States, if necessary, by a majority vote, shall accept the decision of the council of the league afford her sufficient protection.

"I was glad to sign this treaty by considerations which will, I hope, seem as persuasive and as compelling to you as they seemed to me. We are bound to France by ties of friendship which we have always regarded, and shall always regard, as peculiarly sacred. She assisted us to win our freedom as a nation. It is seriously to be doubted whether we could have won it without her gallant and timely aid.

"We have recently had the privilege of assisting in driving enemies, who were also enemies of the world, from her soil; but that does not pay our debt to her. Nothing can pay such a debt. She now desires that we should promise to lend our great force to keep her safe against the power she had not the most reason to fear. Another great nation volunteers the same promise. It is one of the fine reversals of history that the other nation should be the very power from whom France fought to set us free.

"TRUE HEART VS. DUTY."

"A new day has dawned. Old antagonisms are forgotten. The common cause of freedom and enlightenment has created new comradeships and a new perception of what it is wise and necessary for great nations to do to free the world of intolerable fear.

"Two governments, who wish to be members of the League of Nations ask leave of the council of the league to be permitted to go to the assistance of a friend whose situation has been found to be one of peculiar peril without awaiting the action of the league to act.

"It is by taking such pledges as this that we prove ourselves faithful to the utmost to the high obligations of gratitude and tested friendship. Such a one is the one of the proofs that we are a people that make true heart of honor the supreme honor in its own separate sphere of peace.

Hitchcock Predicts Ratification of Treaty Without Amendment

Washington, July 29.—We are both confident that the peace treaty will be ratified by the Senate without amendments or reservations," declared Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, ranking Democratic member of the Foreign Relations Committee, as, with Senator Swanson of Virginia, he left the White House today, following an hour's conference with President Wilson.

LOOT SAFE IN C AR STORE OF $355 CASH

Besides $355 in cash, four razors and a number of watches, valued at $1000, were stolen from the United Cigar Stores Company store at No. 212 Washington street early today, the police were informed. The robbers first entered the store of Samuel Feinstein at No. 214 Washington street. They then forced a door leading into the cigar store and opened the safe by means of the combination. Moist finger prints were left, which were photographed. A detail of police under Captain Sullivan of the City Hall avenue station is working on the case.

HARVARD'S OLD GRADS VISIT SCHOOLS

Wind Up Visit to Alma Mater Tonight With Banquet in Boston

...Graduate School of Harvard renewed its activities today with the medical and dental schools in Brookline. More than 100 of the old timers made up the party which left Cambridge at 9 o'clock.

Dean David L. Edsall welcomed the guests at the medical school and after a brief speech outlining the achievements of his department took them in an inspection of the building. Later Dean Eugene Smith of the dental school spoke to the graduates and also escorted them about the home of his department.

During the course of his speech Edsall asserted that the great majority of the public are today getting bad medical treatment. This he held was due to the individual practitioner, but to the lack of proper apparatus and materials. He said he has given Harvard, he added, the great opportunity in medicine and, if accepted, the Harvard Medical School and Boston may take the place in medicine of Berlin, Munich and Vienna. It will take a million dollars to put the school on its feet, he said, and almost five millions to raise it above European standards, he said.

"At present," Dean Edsall declared, "the medical school has a deficit of $100,000 a year. This would have easily been wiped out if a large proportion of the men had not been doing war work."

Dean Smith of the Dental School recounted the trend of which he said is to enable aged people to keep outside the doors of the poor-house, through maintenance of health and earning ability of children which enables them to expect to become the...

...members of society which might have been precluded had they been forced to pay for the expensive extensive operations and preventive work.

Dean Smith called attention to the fact that previous work of the dental ...resulted in one of the great...beneficent contributions to war ...This was the work of the ...reclamation of the faces and jaws of ...wounded with marvelous skill ...attracted the attention of the ...world.

After their return to Cambridge luncheon at the Colonial Club ...were addressed by Henry ...Holmes, chairman of the division ...engineering, who outlined the plans ...Harvard's $2,000,000 graduate ...school of education; Dean Edwin H. ...of the graduate school of business ...administration and Professor C. ...Bullock of the department of ...

Visits were made later to the Harvard Law School, where Dean Roscoe Pound spoke briefly and escorted his guests through the school, and to the physical laboratories, where Professors P. Bazier and T. W. Richards addressed the men.

The most important meeting in the three days' session will take place tonight at the Harvard Club in Boston. The speakers will be President Lowell, Dean Briggs and Thomas W. Lamont, John chairman of the endowment fund committee. Eliot Wadsworth, dean of the "old grads" ...school, will be toastmaster. The banquet will serve to give the men a final chance, for they leave tomorrow for their respective States to prepare for the campaign that is to end Harvard an endowment of $11,000,000.

NEW PLATEAU FOR BULFINCH FRONT

Plans for State House Grounds Changes Explained by Official Architect

Plans for reconstruction of the State House grounds were given out today by William Chapman, the State House architect, explaining changes in grading which are now in progress. The main idea is to have a plateau along the whole Bulfinch front, to restore as nearly as possible the original effect desired for the building.

At present the effect is that the edifice stands too high above its surroundings. In the original layout, the upper slope of the ground came to about the level of the top of the present steps. The basement story was put in as an afterthought and destroyed the setting for which the building was first designed.

The plateau will extend in front across the whole of Bulfinch's structure, east and west. The Webster and Mann statues will remain unchanged, but the two big fountains have been removed. The present granite wall on Beacon street and the iron rail surmounting it will not be changed. West of the main entrance the big granite posts with massive iron gates will be removed and set in the west side of the grounds. Should the John Hancock house be restored the gates will then be in the right position to lead to it. In any case it is pointed out, their position will be correct, even should the opposition to restoration of the house continue.

There is not money enough at hand for all the work required, according to Mr. Chapman. Thirty-five thousand dollars is available. The construction contemplated will cost about $31,000, but the remainder will be insufficient to improve the grounds of the east wing as planned. Until the money is available, only preliminary work will be done.

Legion to Elect Officers

The South End Post of the American Legion will meet at Deacon Hall tomorrow night, for the election of officers and the enrolment of members.

Exciting Days in Olde Virginia

"On his way back from Governor Spotswood's tobacco plantation down the river, Vaughn espied Indians stealthily approaching through a wood less than two miles below the stockade. Escaping their arrows by good fortune and riding as hard as his horse could carry him, he arrived in time to give warning of the attack."

Does a woman know how to be honorable?

A woman's club proposed thirty-five women for membership in order to blackball them. Do you know of a man's club that would do the same?

"A Woman's Honor" in August Good Housekeeping is more than a true article. It is a challenge. And Good Housekeeping is offering $100 for the best answer to the charge.

AN anecdote is told of a certain famous make of automobile—that, "If you take out the engine, the car will continue to run on its reputation."

It is easy for magazines to do just that thing. When a magazine achieves a large circulation, there is apt to come a tendency to resist improvements—to make each issue just like the one before. Good Housekeeping, although it has long since been in the large circulation class, has notably gone in the other direction. It is not edited for EVERYONE. It is edited individually and progressively, for the discriminating reader—for you.

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING guarantees everyone of its advertisements. Good Housekeeping even goes so far as to maintain laboratories where all food products are tested and all household appliances are tried out before they are admitted to our advertising pages. Every household device is subjected to the most rigorous use based on conditions prevailing in the average home. Good Housekeeping will not, under any circumstance, accept the advertisement of any kind of product in which it does not have full confidence. Good Housekeeping will not, knowingly, advertise a good product for a wrong purpose. Just think what this big constructive service really means to you.

He punished himself for falling in love

And then he came back in the strangest possible way to the world—and the people—he once knew. "The House of Baltazar" by William J. Locke is unquestionably the most intriguing story he has written since "The Beloved Vagabond" and "The Rough Road."

Could You Face This?

Lieutenant Coningsby Dawson tells the tremendously emotional story of the terrible drive that shattered the German line. He tells how our boys faced the test of scarlet. He writes of the grim laughter in their hearts, of the secret glories of great sacrifice, of the untheatrical heroism and grandeur that carried them on to victory. Dawson's story is an adventure of men's souls—not their bodies.

The First Fall Frocks

The newest things shown first. Frocks, suits, afternoon and evening gowns, millinery, waists and coats—even clothes for the boy and girl going away to school. A department edited by the two foremost fashion authorities in New York and Paris. Good Housekeeping tells you where to buy any of the things shown—or will buy them for you.

IRELAND WILL NEVER BE CONQUERED, DECLARES JUDGE COHALAN

BRITISH DIPLOMATS DELUDE WORLD, DECLARES JURIST

This view is strengthened by a study of the literature which most Americans have read, the so-called English literature with which American children in fact usually relate England as the one great power through which civilization has been carrying past the ramparts of justice and progress into the corners of the world. It is not to be wondered at that many Americans are prone to think of England as the guiding star of civilization, educating and lifting up downtrodden and oppressed people that have been tyrannized over by their national tyrants.

This is the view of England that Englishmen like to have the world take of their country. Because of this viewpoint, it is extremely difficult to get before the American turf—fair as it intends to be—the actual facts of history, not to speak of the present-day conditions, as they exist in Ireland.

THE CECILS DOMINATE.

The ordinary American, accustomed to giving almost all of his time to a study of the internal conditions of his own country, so far as his interest leads him or—has not learned to differentiate between the English as a people and the England that, according to her writers and poets, seems to be.

He has not come to understand that the English democracy of which he hears and reads so much has little reality in fact, and that England still continues to be governed by a handful of men, representing, with but few exceptions, the same small group of titled land-controlling families that have governed England since the days of Henry the Eighth, if not, in fact, much longer. Since the dawn of all continental aristocracies this is true of England more than of any other country.

The dominating figures in England today—those in actual power—are the Cecils and their relations. Lloyd George or some other figure that has come to represent democracy or radicalism is present, will, in the eyes of the world, is put forth as the actual head of governing authority. But the will that dominates, controls and finally directs the politics and actions of England, is that of the master spirit of one of the large number of the family or its connections in any purpose.

In the last generation it was the Marquis of Salisbury, former Premier of England, who, it is said, some forty years ago, that England and America were natural rivals in every quarter of the globe in every port, the man who more than any other spirit to make the League of Nations impossible.

Joseph Chamberlain, the great radical, joined the Liberal Conservatives, was responsible for the destruction of the two little republics in South Africa.

It was this same Salisbury who said, in the days when the Irish were carrying on their struggle for them in the parliamentary fight in the House of Commons, that the Irish were no better than the Hottentots and should receive the same treatment. It was the same man who represented England in the congress of Berlin and of whom Bismarck said—because he quit when opposed to superior force—that he reminded him of a tar painted to look like iron.

BALFOUR A BIG FACTOR.

Salisbury was ended and was succeeded by his nephew, James Balfour, who became Premier of England, First Lord of the Admiralty and a number of other high-sounding titles, but who has never been considered as the actual thinker. Should Balfour succeed in the premiership, he would be the first man to do so who was not a member of the House of Lords.

Balfour was the man who, in order to add to the wealth and power of England and to break down those who have stood against her, declared that the world was open to the fore and aft to the activity of every governing power that was displaced by his action. Under cover of the Monroe Doctrine, Salisbury and Balfour, of the proposed League of Nations, would be a farce. Were effective, undo the work of the Revolution and put us in the same state of England as a vassal State of England subject to the control of the Cecils or any other landed aristocracy that might, in the future, control the destinies of England and the world.

The Cecils are the men who dominate England and through her control the British Empire. The little King George V, first cousin to the late Emperor of the Germans and the present Empress of greatest, represents the German royal family as King of England and Emperor of India.

He rules over every third person on earth and over almost every third square mile on earth. He is actually master of all the seas and the air, of a form of government more powerful than any which Cecil rules in all the history of mankind.

Englishmen like to say that King George reigns but does not rule. That is true. The real ruling force is that handful of aristocrats who represent the landed feudal aristocracy of England and who form the most absolute, most arbitrary and most powerful autocracy the world has ever seen.

FOLLOWS ROMAN MOTTO.

The history of England differs from that of every other country. No other country before her has reached her dominant place among the empires of the earth. Rome approached nearer to England than did any other country in similarity of methods by which she acquired world control. Her imperial motto, "Divide et Impera," morsified the policy by which she subdued almost the entire world of her day and ruled the known world without a rival for centuries.

But Rome acquired most of her power through her great soldiers. The generals who led her armies to victory were of Roman blood; the soldiers who fought every thing before them on the field of battle were Roman legions, who found few who could stand before them. They risked their own lives. They shed their own blood, for the quarrels of their country in order that her will might be imposed upon other countries.

England has improved on all this. She follows the Roman motto, but besides England leaves the control of the policy of her government in the hands of her diplomats, other nations, other races are made to supply the armies who will fight, bleed and the soldiers who bleed in order that England may grow great.

The policy which had its beginning under Henry the Eighth has been consistently carried forward, subordinating every other interest to that of the growth of England and the extension of her power. It has been carried on through all the ages by every government which comes into power in England, no matter what its domestic policy may have been.

Englishmen may differ upon domestic problems—upon questions of taxation, of education, of religion—but as against all foreigners they are a unit and their policy is always consistently to take advantage of all blunders given them throughout the world, to make and break treaties, to make and break treaties, to take advantage of friend and foe alike in the interest of England.

Her soldiers have won battles for her on land, her admirals have won fights at sea, but there are nothing of them compared to the triumphs of her diplomats. No group of men in the history of the world can compare in skill, in adroitness, in cunning, in influence, with the diplomats of England.

The British Empire is an external monument of their triumph, but the invisible British empire, with its coaling stations in every government on earth, its thousand and one ways of moulding opinion through the press, the magazines, the pulpit, its schools, of every race and creed, of every clime, is a vaster, more far-reaching monument of their prowess. Their adroitness, their ability to make black seem white.

The Romans were satisfied with other triumph of arms. When their soldiers had beaten down those of the opponent, the generals and princes of the vanquished were brought to Rome and made to walk with them through the streets, chained to the wheels of the chariot of the Roman consul.

The English diplomat, more skilled in human nature, more subtle, more far-reaching in his methods, is not satisfied with such outward marks of triumph. He carries on a campaign throughout the world to justify his actions and, if possible, to ease his own conscience. As an example:

Even though England by brute force has been in possession of the body of Ireland for centuries, the English diplomat continues his fight to destroy the soul of Ireland. Even though he has proclaimed, at the birth of each succeeding generation, that he has again conquered Ireland, he still keeps looking in vain for a declaration from the people of Ireland that they have been conquered.

He tells himself that he has beaten the Irish because of the thousand and one cruelties he has practiced upon them, but he knows in his heart that he cannot conquer the Irish people while one man and one woman of Irish blood survive.

He knows—if the world does not know—that the people of Ireland want absolute independence. He has been able with a thousand subterfuges to confuse the thought of the world on the question of what Ireland wants, but he cannot deceive himself.

—Judge Daniel F. Cohalan in his arraignment of England's policy toward Ireland.

RODMAN'S FLEET HEADED NORTH IN PACIFIC

Sailors Shun Bull Fight at Panama for Baseball Game

By FRANK G. MENKE.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Aboard U. S. S. Arkansas With the Pacific Fleet, July 29 (Via Wireless).—The superdreadnaughts of the Pacific fleet were off the coast of Costa Rica this morning, having steamed about 700 miles since they passed out of the Panama Canal en route to San Francisco, more than 2,200 miles away.

The battleships are maintaining approximately the standard speed of 12½ knots an hour. Drills and manoeuvres continue daily.

On Sunday morning President Porras with other government officials and many ladies visited Admiral Rodman on board the flagship New Mexico. The presidential salute of twenty-one guns was fired in honor of the Panama executive.

Shore leave was granted to half the crews and officers of each of the ships and thousands visited Delboa, Panama City and Amoa, which is an Americanized town with asphalt boulevards, frame and stucco houses and other improvements, making it more up to date than many cities in the United States.

A bull fight in the afternoon attracted many of the men, who were greatly interested in the popular sport of Latin America. Most of them, however, seemed to think that a ball game was a better sport.

The officers were entertained at dances and receptions given by officials in Ancon and Panama City Saturday night while the sailors who had more leave Sunday night enjoyed the freedom of the cities. Altogether it was the biggest holiday the Canal zone has ever seen.

The passage of the fleet through the canal was without mishap except for the boiler explosion on the Mexico. It had been expected that the giant superdreadnoughts might have some difficulty in getting through the locks, but they and the other units of the fleet moved through without a hitch. The passage was completed in about nine hours.

The battleships, which were preceded in Cabo by the destroyers and other light craft, are now at the head of the column, and will retain that position until San Diego is reached. The New Mexico, flying Admiral Rodman's flag on board, will lead the procession into San Diego harbor.

SHORE LINE RAILWAY CO. OUT TO BREAK STRIKE

New London, Ct., July 29.—Strikebreakers will be employed to take the places of 500 street railway workers employed on the Shore Line Electric Railway Company's system, General Manager N. G. Stratton announced today.

The company issued a statement warning the strikers that unless they returned to work by 6 o'clock tonight their places would be filled by others. The company declared that the strikers have refused to come to an equitable agreement for the arbitration of their differences with the company.

CHINESE LAUNDRYMAN ROBBED BY FOOTPADS

Lawrence, July 28.—Chin Ley, proprietor of a local Chinese laundry, was hit over the head with clubs and robbed of $11 by two footpads in the vicinity of Lawrence and Park streets, and is at the Lawrence General Hospital now as a result of the beatings he received. The police claim to know the identity of the highwaymen, who secured a few dollars from the Chinaman's laundry. The yells of the victim attracted many to the scene, although in no case near the robbers, who are said to have fled in the direction of Methuen.

U. S. DELEGATES FROWN ON NEW FOREIGN LOANS

Paris, July 29.—The suggestion, emanating from Italian Foreign Minister Tittoni that an Inter-Allied economic "Alliance" be set up to finance nations whose treasuries were emptied by the war has received no encouragement from the American peace delegates.

An American official said that while the United States is willing to aid Europe as much as possible assistance now must come from private interests and not from the government.

Princess Della Pattri, a royal Egyptian scion of the purest blood, has arrived in San Francisco and proposes to make an extended hunt of the country. Her prime object is to secure a good American husband. Her next is to spend about $50,000 for new clothes of which she is particularly fond. The Egyptian styles run mostly to silks and chiffons, and are sometimes built on rather freakish models, as the photograph shows.

Nuxated Iron Helps Make Red Blood

The Kind That Puts Roses Into the Cheeks of Women and Force, Strength and Courage Into the Veins of Men

Watch the People You Meet On the Street—You Can Tell Those Who Have Plenty of Iron in Their Blood —Strong, Healthy, Vigorous Folks.

Cut this Out

Sworn Statement of the Composition of the FORMULA of Nuxated Iron

It is conservatively estimated that three-fourths of the people in this country have some form of iron. By using other makes of iron Peptonate we could have put the same quantity or actual iron in the tablets for less than one-fourth the cost to us, but using metallic iron we could have accomplished the same thing at less than one-twelfth the cost, but by so doing we must of necessity have imported these metallic elements, oxy-orthophosphates used in the manufacture of the above formula are the ingredients known. It is especially recommended to build up the nerve cells and increase brain power, as glycerine and nerve foods are said to contain phosphorus in that particular state so similar to that which is found in the nerve cells and cells of the brain.

As will be seen from the above, two tablets of Nuxated Iron contain three times the organic phosphate of Sarcenated Iron. Peptonate and oxyorthophosphates are very similar products as regards their value to the human body.

Under such circumstances the temptation of adulteration and substitution by unscrupulous persons is very great, and we are heartily warned to be careful and see every bottle is plainly marked with the name of the particular laboratory from which Nuxated Iron will not help you.

MANUFACTURERS' NOTE: Nuxated Iron is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to physicians everywhere and is one of the most important iron products. It is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach. Nuxated Iron is not recommended for every form of acute illness, but only as a tonic to relieve and build up the run-down, weak, nervous condition so prevalent at this season of the year. If you are not feeling as well as you should or if you are a sufferer from indigestion, constipation, nervousness, lack of energy, etc., you can make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Then take two tablets of Nuxated Iron three times each day after meals for two weeks, and then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. Many nervous, run-down people have increased their strength in two weeks' time so that they could do a full day's work without fatigue. Nuxated Iron is sold by all druggists.

[illegible] the courtroom and [illegible] the automobile in which Sheriff Nicholson transported her across the city to the House of Correction, she turned to her husband, J. Alton Dunn, [illegible] standing in an upper window, smiled, and waved her handkerchief.

The crowd which filled the tiny courtroom and struggled for admittance at the doors, she took no notice, nor when she finished [illegible] missed and nodded to a woman who sat in the front row of spectators.

A large gathering which flocked to the courthouse expecting to hear the sensational revelations concerning the life of the defendant and her husband, was disappointed by the abrupt ending of the case caused by her change in plea.

Dunn, the husband, exhibited no more emotion than did his wife. There was not the slightest trace of nervousness or [illegible] He would not discuss his plans for the future.

SMITH DENIES SCHOOL BILL IS IRRELIGIOUS

Washington, July 29.—Defending his bill to establish a department of education in the Federal government, Senator Hoke Smith, of Georgia, in a speech in the Senate denied that the measure would "take away the right of parents to educate their own children."

"The charge that this bill would banish God from every school without the slightest foundation," senator Smith said. "The bill as only considered an assault upon religion by those who oppose public schools and by those who believe ignorance on the part of the masses increases religious faith.

"The bill is founded upon opposition to taxing all people that all the children may have an opportunity to obtain an education."

One Man Charged With Stealing Couch That Two Couldn't Lift

Brockton, July 29.—Mysterious movement of a "property" couch, claimed in ownership by the General Amusement Company, landed Fred A. Fiske, shoeworker, in the local court today on a charge of having stolen the "prop," which is heavy enough to make three men stagger under its load.

Pending testimony, here is the way the police tell the story:

The couch, a handsome leather upholstered affair, is just such a one as Honora Vanderbucks, petted daughter of the banker, rests her dainty form upon while idly dreaming of Calumet Carburetor, the handsome chauffeur.

Gladys fades out of the picture at this point. Enter the General Amusement Company, controlling the local Strand and City theatres. The G. A. C. says it returned a load of loaned goods to a local furniture house from its Strand Theatre. It also put the couch on the load, to be moved to the City Theatre.

The movers found the City Theatre locked. So they unloaded the couch in the alley and were gone a half hour, delivering the main load to the furniture company. They returned to see if the City Theatre was unlocked. The couch was gone, mind you, a hefty one that three men could hardly handle.

The furniture company, thinking that the couch might have been mixed in with the returned goods, sent a new couch to the General Amusement Company, which later sent it down to New Bedford, where it has another theatre. (Say, the press agent of the G. A. C. ought to stand a dinner on this yarn.)

Anyhow, it became known that a couch was A. W. O. L. Mystery.

Eventually one of the [illegible] of the [illegible] found the missing couch in Atwood & Winters second-hand store. A. & W. allowed they had bought the couch from Fred A. Fiske.

(A little of that [illegible] music [illegible] This part [illegible].)

According to the police, Fiske told Atwood & Winters he had for sale a couch that had been given him. Winters went to Fiske's and paid $1 for the couch. Later Atwood, not knowing Winters had been on the job, went to Fiske and bought the couch for $1.50.

The A. & W. wagon brought the couch to the second-hand store. Each partner noted its arrival and thought it was [illegible] regular and a one-piece [illegible] not knowing the other had bought.

Fiske stands pat on the line: "It was given to me." He pleaded not guilty today and was held in $100 until tomorrow.

The theatre managers say that, if Fiske [illegible] that couch, how in prohibition did he work the [illegible] in a half-hour and who helped him?

PREDICTS PRICE OF $30 FOR FINE SHOES SOON

Shoes at $20 and $30!

That's what Boston is likely to pay for coverings for its pedal extremities this Fall.

Shoes which are now selling at $8 and $9 will be retailing at $12 and $14 anyway this Fall, according to George F. Dow, manager of inquiry and research for the Cutler publications, including the Shoe and Leather Reporter.

"Extremely fine grades of calfskin shoes may go to $30 a pair in Boston," said Mr. Dow today.

"Finest grades of calfskin are worth $2 a foot, labor and overhead charges are big. Here's the way it works out per pair:

Three feet of hide at $2	$6.00
Sole	1.50
Other materials	2.50
Total	$10.00

"That's for materials alone. Add your labor, and overhead and 40 per cent for distribution, and you have reached $25 or more.

"Products of our local South Shore factories, now selling at $8 and $9 per pair, may be expected to jump to $12 and $14. We have been talking $20 shoes here for some time. The better grades will doubtless retail at that price.

"A study of conditions throughout the country, and of statistics and quotations, which I receive every day, has convinced me that hides and consequently shoes will be higher this Fall.

"That ordinary grades of shoes will go to $25 or $30 I don't believe. There must be an end somewhere, and even with the prevailing high wages it would be manifestly impossible for the ordinary working men to pay such prices.

"It is probable that substitutes for leather and imitation leathers will figure largely in our footwear for the lower-priced grades. Everyone buying canvas shoes is theoretically saving that much leather."

LACK OF MEN DELAYS FLEET MANOEUVRES

Newport, R. I., July 29.—Report has reached Newport that it will be impossible for the Atlantic fleet to assemble for manoeuvres before September 1. While many of the ships are undergoing repairs, the lack of men is said to be the real reason. The number in general service at the training station, 3,853, is the smallest yet and the reduction has not gone the limit. The recruits now only receive a month's course before they are sent to complete their training on shipboard.

$50 FINE IN OIL FIRE ON BOYLSTON STREET

A fine of $50 was imposed in the Roxbury Court today on Frederick A. Maddox of the Pennsylvania Oil Company, as a sequel to the naphtha conflagration on Massachusetts avenue, July 18. Maddox, who lives at No. 1275 Bridge street, Lowell, was charged with transporting and carrying a volatile and inflammable fluid without a permit. He appealed. On the day in question a truck filled with naphtha was struck by an army lorry on Massachusetts avenue near Boylston street, and in the fire that followed three persons were injured and fifteen automobiles burned.

PEABODY CLUB TO RUN MODIFIED MARATHON

Father Mathew C. T. A. S. of Peabody will conduct a ten-mile modified marathon race, sanctioned by the New England A. A. A. U., on August 22. The start will be made at Beverly City Hall and the finish will be in Peabody. Any member of the association is entitled to compete.

SHERBURNE AT WORK ON PROBE OF H. C. OF L.

General John H. Sherburne, chairman of the newly appointed State Commission on the Necessaries of Life, left for Washington today to get into immediate touch with national authorities and similar commissions of other States, that the work of investigating the high cost of living in Massachusetts may be co-ordinated with that being done elsewhere.

The commission will organize on Aug. 1, under the terms of the legislative act which created it, and will have quarters in Room 481, State House. Immediately after organizing it will begin a sweeping investigation of the high prices throughout the State of food, fuel, ice and other commodities. One or two of these commodities have already been decided upon as the first to be investigated and no time will be lost by the commission in its effort to get at the bottom of the high prices now prevailing.

SUGGESTIONS SOLICITED.

The commission will welcome suggestions from the public, and after Aug. 1 will be ready to receive complaints of profiteering in any necessary of life, either by letter or by personal visit.

The act creating the commission was based upon several petitions to the Legislature of 1919. It provides that the commission shall serve for one year from the first day of August. Governor Coolidge, on the same day he signed the act, last Wednesday, appointed as members of the commission General Sherburne, chairman; Mayor Charles H. Adams of Melrose and John D. Willard of Amherst. Mr. Willard was formerly connected with the Massachusetts Food Administration.

The act provides that it shall be the duty of the commission to study and investigate the conditions affecting the prices of the commodities which are necessaries of life, and states further that the commission may inquire into all matters relating to the production, transportation, distribution and sale of these commodities and into all facts and circumstances relating to the cost of production, wholesale and retail prices and the methods pursued in the conduct of the business of any persons, firms or corporations engaged in the production, transportation or sale of such commodities or of any business which relates to or affects them.

CLOTHED WITH COURT POWER.

The commission is authorized to give hearings, to administer oaths, to require the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of books and documents and other papers. Witness summonses may be issued by any member of the commission and shall be served in the same manner as summonses for witnesses in criminal cases issued on behalf of the Commonwealth. Any justice of the Supreme Judicial Court or the Superior Court, may, upon application of the commission, compel the attendance of witnesses and the giving of testimony in the same manner and to the same extent as before their courts.

Similar investigations are already under way or are being started by the Federal government and numerous other States. In Ohio, for instance, an investigation is now being conducted in every county, and State officials have just issued a statement in which they declare the high prices to be "artificially inflated at a time when manifestly there ought to be an abundance, if not a surplus, of products."

BANDITS ROB WEST ROXBURY GARAGE

Two unidentified men early today overpowered James Crohan, night man at Billings' garage, No. 2018 Centre street, West Roxbury, stole three tires and some spark plugs, and then carried their captive to Lexington in an automobile, according to the story he told the police.

Crohan said that during the struggle in the garage one shot was fired by a bandit from an automatic pistol.

The man said that after being put out of the automobile he was forced to walk more than a mile before he could get to a telephone and notify the Lexington police.

Crohan, who is forty-two and lives at No. 117 Winthrop street, said he was lying down in the garage office shortly before daybreak. Suddenly a man entered through a rear window, the doors being closed. This man made his way softly to the office and jumped on Crohan, who told the police he grappled with him. The garage man said that the bandit had a pistol in his hand, which was discharged during the scuffle.

The shot brought a second bandit, who also fell on Crohan, according to his story. Crohan was overpowered, and declares he was taken outside and placed in an old automobile which was standing there. The second bandit guarded him, while the first re-entered the garage, returning presently with three tires and $100 worth of spark plugs. They then drove away, and some time later stopped the machine and told Crohan to get out. He did so and the car rolled away. Crohan said he then discovered he was in Lexington.

"Say it with Flowers"

The language of flowers is universal

Sympathy, love, congratulations and friendly greetings, when entrusted to floral messengers, are beautified in expression beyond the power of words.

There is an individuality to Penn's floral messengers that is unique.

MORE HOT AIR FOR WELLESLEY TOWN HALL

In former years only heated citizens who had a grievance would appear, others remaining at home to keep warm.

BOSTON HAS ONE OF ITS 'LONGEST' FIRES

One of the longest fires in Boston history occurred today in the one-story wooden structure rear No. 1,000 Harrison avenue, Roxbury. It was a long fire because the building is used as a rope storage by the Boston Rope Company. The lengths of rope, if stretched end to end, would reach nobody knows how far. There was much smoke from the burning cordage. The police report set the damage at $2,500. The building had been boarded up, so the causes of the fire seemed to lie between spontaneous combustion and incendiarism.

DRIVE AGAINST SALE OF U. S. CARS IN FRANCE

And now the whole lot goes on sale at a price which is perhaps misleading as an indication of quality, but is eloquent of opportunity when the sweaters are seen.

Niles, Williams, Harte and Garland Meet in Semi-Finals at Longwood

FEATURE MATCHES TODAY.

Nathaniel W. Niles vs. R. Norris Williams, 2nd.

Richard Harte vs. Charles S. Garland.

R. Norris Williams, 2nd, of Boston, and Watson M. Washburn of New York, winners of the Eastern doubles championship in 1915, won the New England sectional doubles title in the final match on the Longwood courts, Chestnut Hill, from Charles S. Garland of Pittsburgh and Craig Biddle of Philadelphia in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

Williams and Washburn outclassed their opponents all the way. The victory carries with it the right to play in the national doubles championships on the same courts August 12.

Williams and Washburn started right in taking the first game by early scoring by winning the first game after a hot argument. They followed it up by winning the next three games. After Garland and Biddle won a fifth game, Williams served, and two more games were credited to the former Harvard players, giving them the set.

Washburn, by wonderful strokes across court, helped Williams, who executed some wonderful placements, came through in the second set in fine style. Williams and Washburn directed their attack against Biddle, driving the ball at his feet which the Philadelphia athlete often failed to return. Williams and Washburn won the second set, 6-3.

It required eight games for the present New England sectional doubles titleholders to put it over, 6-4, to win the third set. They lost the first won the second and third and then took the next five games and the set, 6—2. Score of the match by points and the stroke analysis:

SAND LOT STARS

Joe Berger has done most of the hurling this season for the Gerald A. C. and his work shows that he is right there with the goods. For a boy of his age he is showing a lot of promise, and his work in the future will bear watching. He stands up well at the bat also, being one of those pitchers who, contrary to all the rules, can take a good crack at the ball as well as keeping opponents from getting too free with his delivery.

Winners in the other classes were: Tommy Todd, 2.08 trot; Harvest Lad, 2.18 trot; Grace Direct, 2.05 pace.

Boxing Notes

Young Kisby and Johnny Donovan will be supported by an attractive preliminary card at Lawrence Saturday afternoon. Tommy Kirby and Kid Francis, lawrence lightweights, will exchange blows in the semi-final bouts of eight rounds. Young Jarvis of Lawrence and Mack Murphy of this city will go over the jumps in a six-round affair, while Jack Mahoney of Lawrence and Young Russo of Lawrence will exchange blows in another six-session tilt.

Donovan is training for his contest with the Y. D. champion at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, South Boston. He's trying to retain the five extra pounds he's put on during the last couple of weeks. If he is successful in doing so, he will enter the ring at 138 pounds, while Kisby will have to weaken himself to make the notch. All of which makes Donovan supporters believe he will win.

Here's the preliminary card for the Bobby Josephs-Chuck Hayes mixup at the Commercial club, Friday night. Willie Roberts vs. Billy Sullivan, eight rounds. Jerry Lennon vs. Young Emery, six rounds, and Al Lace vs. Jack Noyes, six rounds.

Jack Leonard has arranged a strong preliminary program for the Hosmer-Wallace bout which will be held at Marlboro Friday night. It follows: Kid Norton, Camp Devens, vs. Young Dundee, Milford, six rounds; Soldier Howard, New Bedford, vs. Kid Miller, Chelsea, six rounds, and Frank Rogers, Boston, vs. Young Mack, Medway, six rounds.

Wallace is able to bounce off the ropes like Johnny Dundee, while he possesses a sweet left hand punch. Despite all this Dyson is confident he'll win as he did in his contests with Barney Snyder, Al Girard and Frankie Fay.

FITZSIMMONS TO MEET CARLSON AT TRIPLE A

New Yorker and Brockton Boxer Clash in Main Bout of 12 Rounds Tonight

Armory A. A. Selections

Eddie Fitzsimmons to beat Harry Carlson.

Billy Duffy to beat Joe Gibbs.

Flash Rogers to beat Young Haggerty.

Tootsie O'Toole to beat Arthur Rose.

By JACK CONWAY.

Eddie Fitzsimmons of New York will try to add a little more glory to the family name when he opposes Harry Carlson, Brockton lightweight, in a twelve-round tussle at Mechanics Building tonight under the direction of the Armory A. A.

Edward is not quite as famous as Freckled Robert was when he was dropping heavyweights to the mat with a soft little poke to the solar plexus. But he's whirling along the palmetto highways at a merry rate. Every time Benny Leonard, boss of the lightweights, hears the rumble of Fitzsimmons' homing motor, he immediately goes on a rocky ride to some quiet spot where there are no fights or fighters and similar annoyances.

'Tis said that Fitzsimmons is not one of these regular lightweights who scales 133 pounds. Maybe and but nobody has accused Leonard of making such low poundage these many months. He's giving all kinds of excuses when offered as much money as they raise on a couple of bean drives to meet Lew Tendler in Philadelphia at 135 pounds ringside.

For tonight's tussle Fitzsimmons has agreed to make 136 pounds, which is not a whole lot removed from 133 or 135 pounds. He undoubtedly could make the latter weight without much trouble, and it is very doubtful if Leonard ever fights below this notch again.

Fitzsimmons' willingness to fight has made him a big favorite in this city. In his last start he walloped Charley Wade to a fare-thee-well at the Grand Opera House. Wade's boys had White picked to win. It was only natural, as he has fought his greatest battles right here in Boston. A few years back the Chicago mug's favorite pastime was that of knocking out our local lightweights at the Arena.

'Twas a different story when he opposed Fitz. This young gentleman made the once Kayo kling look like a novice in his first professional bout. He knocked him to the mat on divers occasions and would have scored a knockout if White was not such a game fighter.

It is obvious that Carlson has quite an assignment for this p. m. And yet he is not worrying. If last the first time Carlson has opposed one of the best men in his class. He's also got the happy faculty of coming through with a banner performance when his rival is picked to stab the big award.

It was Carlson who first exploded Benny Valger, the French Flash. The latter got the decision, but the Brockton lightweight proved that Valger is not the type of boxer who wins a championship. Carlson forced the issue in almost every round and had Valger doing a lot of defensive work.

Carlson also went the distance with Young Kisby when that rugged fighter outweighed him by twenty pounds. In his tussle with Charley Parker, George Freeman's protege proved he could come back after being knocked down. So it looks as though Fitzsimmons would have a very busy evening if he is to finish in front.

Billy Duffy, Everett welterweight and Joe Gibbs of this city will exchange blows in the semi-final bout of eight rounds. These men performed in a similar role at the Dundee-Valger mixup and furnished the fans with one of the best semi-final bouts staged hereabouts since the days when Nelson, Eldridge and Silverts were furnishing the thrills.

There will also be a couple of six round preliminaries.

CORBETT'S COLUMN

England is yearning again for supremacy in the fistic world.

Once—long years ago—the British Isles produced the only real pugilists. For England was the cradle of fighting. But when the reign of Jem Mace came to an end, the United States jumped to the front, and in all the years since then an American boxer has dominated in the heavyweight ranks.

But England is determined that there shall be no interregnum in the title holding by Americans. Its sportsmen now are scouring the British Isles for the most likely looking heavyweights and they hope to uncover one in a short time who will be able to dethrone the mighty Jack Dempsey.

The pugilistic game had its real beginning in England far back in 1716 in the time of Figgs Ring. From then on, for more than 150 years, all the great fighters were products of the British Isles. And in all that time the bare knuckle method of warfare prevailed. It was a brutal form of fighting and it finally disgusted the real red blooded sportsmen of the land, who decided against that form of battling—and then came the Marquis of Queensbury with his new rules for the fistic game.

MACE LAST OF CHAMPIONS

Strange as it may seem, England's decay as a pugilistic nation followed the introduction of those Queensbury rules. Not since they have been in vogue has there been a British champion among the heavyweights.

It would seem that when Britons no longer could fight with unrestricted "muscles" and bodies of rough and tumble, gouging, wrestling and throwing ring tactics, they lost their fighting skill.

Jem Mace was the last of the great British fighters—and Mace passed from greatness long years ago. In all the two generations since then England has not produced as many fighters as it did in a single year prior to that time.

In fact, Charlie Mitchell was the only really wonderful warrior that England has known since the Queensbury rules came into vogue.

But now that Mitchell's time England hasn't produced a heavyweight of any consequence. Wells—one John Scrambler Wells—was touted as a possible conqueror of the American champion Wells, defensively, was a great fighter. And he could hit with great force.

But Wells had a jaw of the "glass" variety. One jolt to his chin—and he was through. He battered many Americans in a way that made it look as if he might be a world beater. But the first time they reached his jaw he was through. He couldn't take a single punch there—even though he could take a hundred in any other part of the body.

KILBANE OUTPOINTS FOX FIVE ROUNDS OUT OF SIX

Philadelphia, July 29.—Johnny Kilbane, monarch of the featherweights, outpointed Joey Fox, England's best, in five of the six rounds at the Phillies ball park.

Fifteen thousand spectators saw America's fighting machine battle his way to the honors in five of the six sessions.

The only round conceded to Fox was the fourth, when the Britisher sent Johnny sprawling on the floor. It was not a real knockout. Kilbane dropped more from a push than a punch. He had missed a swing for Fox's head when Joey caught him off balance with a short left, and, Johnny went to the canvas. There was no count by Referee O'Brien, Kilbane smilingly jumped to his feet before the worse from his trip to the floor.

YANKEE SPORTS POPULAR IN AFRICA

Charles Jones, Harvard Athlete and Y. M. C. A. Worker, Introduces Games

Paris, July 29, mail.—American baseball, basketball and army meet games have been played for the first time in Africa at Tunis and Algiers this Spring, and have been added Enthusiasm for Yankee athletics was carried to the French colonies in Africa by the returning colonial soldiers who learned the games in France under instruction of Y. M. C. A. athletic directors with the Foyer du Soldat.

When the colonials were returned to Africa the French War Ministry asked the "Y" to send to Tunis and Algiers four athletic directors for permanent work at the army posts there. This being impossible, the "Y" sent Charles Jones, a Harvard athlete and professional coach in athletics at Worcester Academy, to spend six weeks in each of the two African cities in Tunis teaching baseball, mass games and basketball.

Jones had been touring at the French Army Centre of Physical Instruction at Joinville, near Paris, and at Magnien found a number of "boneheads" as the French call their army athletic instructors, whom he had trained in American games at Joinville. They were already playing our games. Secretary Jones was able in six weeks at each army post to organize the sports on a permanent basis, running a baseball series, basketball tournaments and programs of mass games.

NEEDED BREAKS FAIL RED SOX IN PINCHES

By HUGH S. FULLERTON.

What a great part confidence plays in baseball is pretty well illustrated by the statement of the members of the Red Sox team following the Mays deal. [illegible] issued a statement that there was no dissension on the team, that the players were loyal to Manager Barrow and that the cause of their bad showing this season is "continued run of bad breaks."

An examination of the scores of games played by the Red Sox this season indicates that the "breaks" have been slightly against the team, especially with Mays [illegible] long continued run of bad breaks is possible in baseball [illegible] unless the players lose confidence in themselves and in the [illegible] who is working.

This may or may not be consolation [illegible] fact remains that, behind one pitcher a team will play with [illegible] aggressive spirit [illegible] with a fighting front that brings [illegible] they look like a different team.

CHICAGO BACKS CICOTTE.

For instance, the Chicago White Sox play much better ball with Cicotte pitching than they do behind any other pitcher. They go into a game with the idea that they are going [illegible]

Washington is a much better club [illegible] St. Louis this year backs Shocker against New York as if the game already is won, because Shocker thinks he can beat the Yanks as fast as they come and the fellows behind him get the same idea.

There is a tradition among ball players that a winning team can get away with anything and it is en[illegible] team would not attempt and, if it did attempt, would not carry through. Besides the inspiration derived from [illegible] sounding discouragement in the other team.

It is a sort of "Oh what's the use" feeling which does not help the playing of anyone. Any fellow who ever has played football on a team which is hopelessly outclassed with the opposing team breaking through, blocking plays, tearing the line to pieces, understands the feeling. It is not "quitting"; it is a sort of raging hopelessness which prevents a man from doing his best work.

WHITE SOX GET BREAKS.

As an illustration of how a winning team can get away with almost anything take the White Sox. Those [illegible] this season appear to be able [illegible] on their own blunders [illegible] with the bases full [illegible] two out and two strikes on [illegible] they tried a squeeze play [illegible] wonder of it was that it did [illegible] succeed.

[illegible] hitting with two balls and no strikes, hitting the first ball, stealing third at all sorts of wild moments, and forcing the attacks all the time. They will get away with it just so long as their confidence lasts. It is not the natural way to win championships, but in weakened leagues it may succeed.

The untimely death of Jim Hart recalls a yarn he used to tell about poor old Tom Toad Ramsey, who was the greatest pitcher of his time and who had the greatest [illegible] known.

Tom was one of the most dependable [illegible] Hart remarked [illegible] reminiscent [illegible] "Of course he got drunk as often as possible [illegible] I went [illegible] Wednesday [illegible] 'Tom, you pitch Sunday. Get as drunk as you please between now and then but show up Sunday and beat Cincinnati!' That was all that was necessary.

How to Play Baseball

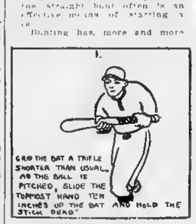
THIS is the fifty-seventh of a series of 100 articles by Hugh S. Fullerton, celebrated baseball expert, on "How to Play Baseball." In this lesson Mr. Fullerton continues to tell how to become a batter. These articles will be a feature of the American's sport pages each day. Don't miss them.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON.

Bunting is the highest development of the art of advancing runners on the bases to within striking distance of the plate. For any team possessing "airtight" pitchers, that is pitchers who are certain to hold the opposing team to a low score, the bunting game is the safest and surest means of victory. The sacrifice is not the game for a team with mediocre pitchers and for such teams it should be used only by the fast men and as a surprise attack.

Against [illegible] notoriously [illegible] pitchers who in their effort to pitch throw themselves far out of position, the straight bunt often is an effective means of starting a [illegible]

Bunting has more and more [illegible]



[illegible] there are major [illegible] New York [illegible]

To bunt successfully there are two ways of holding the bat. One is to grip the bat a trifle shorter than the natural grip, and as the ball is pitched to slide the topmost hand ten inches up the bat and hold the stick [illegible] The other method is to hold the hands exactly as when [illegible] the ball will strike dead against the bat.

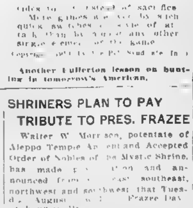
In the old days a large number of batters used to turn their bats as the ball was pitched and bunt with the small end of the stick. This, however, requires much skill and it must be remembered that to bunt the ball entirely [illegible] the most disastrous of plays.

the first described for with that grip it is possible for the batter to push the ball in any desired direction by the angle at which he holds the bat. In all cases the bat should merely be poked against the ball with the wrist motion and without a swing of the arms.

Constant practice will enable any player to learn to bunt well, and every player should practice sacrificing. The poorer hitter a player is the more he should practice bunting, as the best system of play is the game is for the weaker hitters to resort to the sacrifice.

This is especially true of pitchers. The pitcher who can bunt is a valuable asset to any club whether or not he can hit well. Besides this, the player who achieves a reputation for being able to bunt [illegible] for the purpose of sacrificing very frequently [illegible] the ball down the groove to force him [illegible] straight [illegible]

[illegible]



[illegible] instead of sacrifice. More games are won by such quick switches [illegible] of attack than by [illegible] any other single element of the game.

INTERESTING STORIES

Described in Detail

A military officer was discussing the critics who declared that there is too much red tape routine and form in present army life. "Maybe it is overdone a little, but," continued the officer, "but every bit of army life and procedure has been the outgrowth of necessity. For example, we have certain concise and staid rules for reporting [illegible] which has reduced this [illegible] one. Nowadays you find [illegible] such as I [illegible]

War [illegible] was one [illegible] report concerned the capturing of a rebel battalion by a battalion of Union troops, and the major in detailing the engagement wrote as follows:

"Our left was trying to move around the rebel right, but the rebel right also was moving around our left. When the left of the [illegible] left was left [illegible] knew which was left where our right just left. So when the rebels [illegible] was left right where our right [illegible] left our right was left right left of their right, and that's how it happened."

"All right!" yelled Pat.

Away went Pat downstairs and, getting into the street, he exclaimed, "Why, Mike, ye're here first! Which way did you come?"

About Lies and Liars

WINIFRED BLACK ANSWERS A READER.

The Famous Writer Points Out the Futility of Falsehoods and Suggests a Cure

By Winifred Black

(Whose writings have won her the devotion of hundreds of thousands of readers all over the country.)

SHE'S a liar, this girl who has just written to me. A hopeless, helpless, outrageous liar—she says so herself, and she has written to ask me what to do about it.

"I've lied for years," says this woman. "I was led into it by a man who taught me to deceive my parents and friends.

"And for years I've never told the truth about anything.

"I've tried and tried, I've even prayed about it, but all at once there I am, telling them again—the same as ever. How shall I break myself of the habit?"

I feel as if a morphine fiend or a hopeless drunkard had come to me for counsel. What on earth is there to tell a woman like that?

Lying is such a ridiculous vice.

It doesn't do anything for anybody, anywhere, any time, that really counts.

The "Different" Fib

No one is ever deceived very long by any one who tells lies—not fibs, but lies.

Fibs are sometimes something a good deal like a necessity.

If a girl asks you if you think her hat is becoming, and you know she spent the last cent of her allowance on it, what's the use of making her uncomfortable by telling her that she looks a fright when she has it on?

Why not smile and say something agreeable and change the subject?

This sort of thing isn't lying, in the strict sense of the word. It is the small change of society, like telling the maid to say that you are not at home when you're too busy or too tired to see people.

The born liar or the liar that is made by habit doesn't bother with such little fictions as these.

Born liars tell tales about the salaries they get, and the rent they pay, and the people [illegible] the plays they've seen [illegible]

[illegible]

How [illegible] they [illegible] people [illegible]

[illegible] getting $40 [illegible]

[illegible] can think they will believe [illegible] story—as if they never [illegible] shopping themselves and didn't know the market price for Paris frocks.

It takes a very clever man and a highly intelligent woman to lie successfully.

All Nature Involved

If you say that you went to Washington for the week end when you stayed at home in your own flat you have leagued against you the forces of nature [illegible]

The janitor and the elevator boy and the garbage man and the grocery boy, and the iceman and the [illegible] know that you were at home. And, besides, somebody [illegible] what train [illegible] hotel you chose [illegible] say there is [illegible] for you.

How shall you get over telling lies, my strange correspondent?

Humiliate yourself, go to the person to whom you told that falsehood and admit that you did not tell the truth.

Do this once or twice, and you won't [illegible] many more unnecessary falsehoods.

I'm sorry for you—but how in the world did you ever allow yourself to get into the grip of such a foolish, harmful habit?

Use Cocoanut Oil For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.—Advertisement.

Stocks Weak in New York at Noon, After Irregular Opening

COPPER ISSUES ACTIVE, BUT LOWER

Prices on Home Exchange Are Affected by New York Reaction

Firm at the opening, the Boston market soon reflected the weakness in New York. It was irregular at the end of the hour, with the majority of issues showing losses. Coppers were active but not so strong as yesterday. Most of them failed to hold early gains. Seneca opened at a record high price and then advanced a fraction further. Before the end of the morning it was back to Monday's closing figure. Highs for the year were reached by St. Mary's Mineral Land and East Butte.

Among weak issues in the second hour were Allouez, Calumet & Arizona, Mayflower, Quincy, U. S. Smelting, Swift & Co., International Products, Eastern Steamship preferred, Mexican Investments, United Shoe and Stewart. They had receded from fractions to three points, Quincy being the weakest.

United Fruit was active for a while and up more than three points at its highest. Boston Elevated advanced a point on one sale. Mullins Body Corporation was traded in for the first time opening at 39½. United Drug common advanced 5⅞ to 161 on a single transaction.

UPWARD PRICE TREND FOR STEEL PRODUCTS

The price trend for steel and iron products is said to be upward and one concern has taken the initiative as regards nails and barbed wire. But nothing has developed to indicate a change in the conservative policy of the United States Steel Corporation. New business is reported to be of about the June volume. Export shipments should largely increase, judging from inquiries received from abroad. Steel mills are operating on the average at 70 to 75 per cent. of capacity.

There is more demand for pig iron.

Value of 1918 Cotton Crop

The Bureau of Crop Estimates of the Department of Agriculture figures that the 1918 cotton crop, including seed and linters, was worth $2,067,000,000 to producers. This is double the preceding high record for value and which was established in 1913.

Steel Production in 1918

Official figures concerning this country's 1918 output of steel ingot and finished forms of rolled iron and steel show ingot production of 44,462,432 tons, compared with 45,060,607 in 1917, and finished steel production of 31,155,754 tons, compared with 33,087,700.

NO CHANGE IN COPPER METAL QUOTATIONS

No change was reported as to copper prices yesterday, the metal being firmly held at 23¼ to 23½ cents a pound for spot, 23½ to 23¾ for August and 24 cents for September delivery. There is no desire on the part of largest distributors to quote metal beyond the latter month. According to reports no inquiries for large amounts of metal have been made within a few days. Consumers evidently have supplies for the immediate present. An advance in prices would cause no surprise in any quarter.

The government has disposed of the bulk of the copper it had on hand when the armistice was signed. It has sold 100,000,000 pounds within four months.

STEELS RECEDE UNDER BEAR PRESSURE

Shipping, Leather, Copper and Oil Issues Are Lower as Groups

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were weak in New York at noon, bears having dominated the market during the morning. Steel, shipping, leather, copper and oil issues were lower as groups. New Haven was a strong rail, advancing more than a point before noon. Trading was on a larger scale than yesterday, first hour transactions totaling more than 400,000 shares. A Washington statement that the Federal Reserve Board would consider the expansion of brokers' loans at its meeting today had a depressing effect. The extra dividend declared on Hide and Leather preferred had little influence.

At 12 o'clock U. S. Steel was off 1⅝ at 111¾. Its morning range was from 110⅞ to 113¾.

Among weakest issues were Crucible, Bethlehem B, Car & Foundry, American Locomotive, Baldwin, American Sugar, Sumatra, Atlantic Gulf, Central Leather, Corn Products, General Electric, General Motors, International Paper, Keystone, Maxwell, Studebaker, Stutz, Marine common, Mexican Petroleum, Pan American, Texas Co., Royal Dutch of New York, Stromberg, Tobacco Products, Industrial Alcohol, Woolen common and U. S. Rubber. They had receded from two to almost six points.

IRREGULAR AT OPENING.

Early prices changes were irregular as to gains and losses and stocks had a narrow range as a rule. Steels began stronger but shipping shares weakened. Atlantic Gulf reflected disappointment as to its earnings for last year. A few specialties were prominent and materially advanced, including New York Dock common and preferred, Montana Power and Owens Bottle. They were strong yesterday. After a brief period, in which the trend was indefinite, stocks were offered in sufficient quantity to cause prices to recede. The market was weak at the end of thirty minutes. Largest recessions during that period were sustained by Central Leather, Mexican Petroleum, Pan American, Industrial Alcohol, Keystone Tire, Marine common, Texas Company and Stromberg. They receded from two to more than three points.

PRESSURE ON STEEL.

Pressure was renewed upon United States Steel, and it receded more than a point, which was true also of Crucible, Bethlehem B and Baldwin. Traders were dubious regarding what United States Steel would report about second quarter earnings. Bears were busy with rumors that the showing would be poor. Prices were on a still lower level at the end of an hour. American Hide & Leather preferred advanced a point in response to its report that surplus for the fiscal year ended by June was equivalent to 20.62 per cent. on that issue, compared with 18.04 per cent. for the preceding twelve months.

CANADIANS BUYING AMERICAN WOOLENS

Canadian firms are buying American made woolens according to advices received at Washington, and are said to be unanimous in the opinion that American cloth is improving greatly in quality and that it is only a question of time when it will equal the European product.

Statements by one Canadian importer are that he had been unable to obtain 25 per cent. of his firm's requirements and that he had to pay an increase of 15 cents and more a yard for what he could get. He said also that the shortening of working hours in mills in England had caused prices to soar in that country.

FOREIGN CREDITS ALREADY ARRANGED

Much of the recent foreign buying of products in this country has been made possible by credits already arranged. Efforts in that line began as soon as fighting ceased in Europe. A syndicate of American bankers granted Belgian interests $50,000,000 credit acceptance. Sweden sold here 6 per cent. bonds totalling $25,000,000, Czecho-Slovakia has drawn acceptance bills totalling $6,300,000 and Switzerland has sold 5½ per cent. bonds to the amount of $30,000,000.

It is stated in New York that practically all European nations are seeking information as to how much credit they can obtain in this country.

British Gold Shipped Here

British gold shipments to this country in June totaled $18,000,000, being forwarded from Canada to J. P. Morgan & Co. Now it is announced that 50,000 ounces of Transvaal gold, valued at $1,000,000 is en route to Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

Cotton Market

New York, July 29.—The cotton market opened 7 to 25 points lower and then broke heavily under increased general selling. At the end of the fifteen minutes active positions were down 40 points. Opening prices were: August, 33.85; October, 34.13; December, 34.70; January, 34.62; March, 34.64; May, 34.54.

Farm Machinery Exports

Since the war ended Europe has been preparing to resume its agricultural stride and feed itself instead of depending upon America. The story is told by exports of farm machinery. For the eleven months ended by May last they totaled $36,917,567, compared with $30,301,971 for the like 1914 period. In May this year they amounted to $4,089,520, compared with $2,207,545 in May, 1914.

Coal Production

Anthracite production decreased slightly during the week ended July 19, being estimated at 1,822,000 tons, or 51,000 tons less than during the preceding week. Bituminous production for the July 19 week was 9,953,000, a 3 per cent decrease.

Large Steamship Earnings

Earnings of Eastern Steamship lines for June this year were in striking contrast to the returns of that 1918 month. The surplus after charges for June 1919 was $109,043, compared with $7,568 deficit for June, 1918.

To Prevent Car Shortage

More than 15,000 coal cars built at war prices and refused acceptance by railroads for that reason will be at their disposal now to relieve the shortage. More than 4,000 idle cars are stored in and around Pittsburgh.

City Loans

Lawrence, Mass., will receive bids until 10 a. m., Thursday, July 31, for the purchase of $280,000 4½ per cent. bonds, all dated June 1, 1919.

Rockport, Mass., will receive bids until 7 p. m., Wednesday, July 30, for the purchase of $15,900 4½ per cent. bonds, dated July 1, 1919.

THEATRES

"HAVANA" FULL OF CATCHY MUSIC

"Havana" came to the Plymouth Theatre last night, the musical comedy, not the city—although Boston was warm enough to have made Cubans themselves feel at home.

"Havana," as presented by Carl Hunt's aggregation of artists, is elaborately staged and costumed. Much thought has been given to decorative detail, and the electrical effects in the second act are deserving of especial mention. When it has been liberally cut it will furnish a most enjoyable evening for tired Boston business men who needs must while away the time while their families are at the shore.

Two persons stand out prominently in the cast—Dorothy Maynard as Consuelo and John Norton as Samuel Nix. Miss Maynard, as has come to be expected, is equal both in voice and acting ability to the demands of her character, and John Norton gathers new laurels as Boston's premiere low comedian. Then there's the donkey, that last night didn't catch its cue and declined to leave the stage until forced by suasion.

Others who are well cast are Irving Beebe as J. DePeyster Jackson; Flavia Arcaro as Isabelita; Barrett Greenwood as Don Adolpho, Dorothy Quinette as Anita, and Al Roberts as Reginald Brown. Floyd English and Miss Quinette give an Apache dance that really earns the encores it receives. And Miss Maynard with Barrett Greenwood does a wee bit of a dance herself that discloses new capabilities.

"Havana" is replete with tuneful songs and catchy music. The topical songs that John Norton sings were especially well received. But as far as plot is concerned—the usual well-nourished gentleman in the bald-headed row gave up trying to find one early in the evening, and from that time on slept calmly.

That doesn't mean, however, that "Havana" is sleepy. It was a warm evening. From the reception given "Havana" by last night's audience, and from the evident pains and expense that have made this ambitious production possible, it would hardly be surprising if this pleasing musical play were continued longer than a week at the Plymouth Theatre.

Plays That Remain

WILBUR THEATRE—"Oh, My Dear!" the sixth New York Princess Theatre musical comedy success, started its second capacity week at the Wilbur Theatre last evening. From all indications this latest Comstock-Elliott production is going to outshine all of its popular predecessors. Since the opening night the S. R. O. sign has been in front of the theatre and bids fair to remain there for some time to come.

TREMONT TEMPLE—"Daddy Long Legs" and Mary Pickford have betaken themselves to Tremont Temple, following their wonderfully successful engagement at the Tremont Theatre, and in their new home will continue to delight thousands of Greater Bostonians for a few weeks more. Two performances will be given daily. No photoplay has ever given Miss Pickford the opportunities of which she takes such delightful advantages as she does in this clever, human interest story.

SHUBERT THEATRE—This is the last week of "Open Your Eyes," the picture play with a mission at the Shubert Theatre, and those who have delayed seeing this startling and important drama with its vital lessons on the timely subject of social evils should lose no more time, as it will not be shown again in this city. The film drama is going on tour through New England.

SUCCESS WON BY "DAMAGED GOODS"

"Damaged Goods," a screen version of the famous play by Eugene Brieux, and which was presented in Boston as a drama in 1914, was given its first film presentation here last evening at the Majestic Theatre before a large audience.

The cast is headed by Richard Bennett, who headed the company which first produced the play here, and he gives an excellent interpretation of the leading role. He is ably assisted by Adrienne Morrison in the leading female role.

This great play has been thoroughly explained, discussed and analyzed. It deals with a subject usually avoided, though of vital importance. It exemplifies the saying of Scripture, "Be sure your sin shall find you out," and is interpreted in Kipling's lines:

For the sin that ye do by two and two
Ye shall pay for one by one.

The piece is magnificently staged, the costumes elaborate and the action could scarcely be improved upon.

That the play, whether spoken or pictured, should have scored so great a success is evidence of an awakened public conscience in regard to matters which it has too often been considered indelicate and improper to discuss, and to create this awakening was the main purpose of Eugene Brieux.

Other Theatres

LOEW'S ORPHEUM—The screen program vied successfully with the vaudeville bill for honors with the patrons of the Orpheum Theatre yesterday. One of the most delightful dancing and syncopation offerings was that of "The Rainbow Girls." Their work revealed artistry of unusual sort. A very clever one-act comedy, "The Harmless Bug," was presented by a capable company to generous laughter. Others on the bill were Cook & Vernon, in their delightful comedy skit, "Sister Susie"; Jack Golden, comedian and singer, and Juggling Nelson. On the screen the first showings were given of Charlie Chaplin in "Sunnyside," as a saddened hotel porter who endures persecutions extraordinary at the hands of a despotic employer; the news pictures, and Viola Dana, in "The Microbe." The bill changes on Thursday.

MODERN AND BEACON THEATRES—With three eminent stars heading their respective photoplays shown for the first time yesterday, the Modern and Beacon theatres unfolded a program that challenges for comparison in worth and generosity. Charlie Chaplin, in his latest screen farce, "Sunnyside," took precedence in point of power of attraction. Wallace Reid was shown in "The Love Burglar," and Mabel Norman, in "Upstairs," is pictured as a hotel slavey in the lower regions of downstairs whose venture into the sacred precincts of upstairs is fraught with humorous and exciting incidents. News pictures completed the excellent bill.

GLOBE THEATRE—The photoplay bill presented yesterday at Loew's Globe Theatre was one of the best ever shown at this popular house. Charlie Chaplin in "Sunnyside" headed the list, and unceasing laughter greeted him because of the variety and number of persecutions endured under the oppressions of a tyrannous hotel proprietor under whom he served as a lowly porter. The photoplay incuded Viola Dana in "the Microbe" and June Elvidge in "Coax Me."

COLUMBIA THEATRE—Charlie Chaplin in "Sunnyside," Geraldine Farrar in "The Stronger Vow" and Jackie Saunders in "Muggsy," were the photoplays shown yesterday at the Columbia Theatre. Chaplin's picture will also be shown today together with Emily Stevens in "A Man's World" and Kitty Gordon in "Vera, the Medium."

U. S. Merchant Marine

This country now has a great merchant marine. Not including fifty-six ocean steamships of more than 405,000 gross tonnage now in use as transports, the merchant marine of the United States on June 30 this year comprised 27,300 vessels of 12,800,000 gross tons.

Britain's Foreign Trade

The June balance of trade for the United Kingdom was adverse, exports totalling £64,526,346, an increase of £19,536,115, compared with the corresponding 1918 month, while imports totalled £122,945,655, an increase of £21,400,936.

PLEASING BILL FOR KEITH PATRONS

It's a dandy show at Keith's this week.

Leila McIntyre and John Hymans are back again with their delightful little playlet—"Maybloom"—entertaining their host of followers with their exclusive song numbers and sparkling humor.

And Irving Fisher—another star—in his "single" act rendering songs de luxe. He possesses a wonderfully cultivated voice and pleasing personality. This is his initial appearance in vaudeville. Recently he made a tremendous hit playing the lead with Nora Bayes in "Ladies First." Theatrical history repeats itself. Fisher took the house by storm.

Robert Hyman and Virginia Mann, in "5,000 a Year," was well done. It is a novel little playlet that brings out the point that a woman can be as clever as a man, and, if she so chooses, can go even one point beyond.

Marie and Ann Clark have an original comedy number, and put it over very well. Talking, singing and dancing make up this act.

Other acts on the bill are "Skeet" Gallagher and Irene Clark, assisted by Robert H. Beldon, in "Sweaters"; Bert Howard in "A little artistic nonsense"; Tomaki Duo in the art of self-defense; Felix Bernard and Jack Duffy; also Collins and Hart in a character piece.

The news weekly, with topics of the day, were also shown.

At the Parks

PARAGON PARK—Thousands are hastening to Paragon Park and the famous Palm Garden, Nantasket, daily to see the astounding battles in the air between real American aces in actual battle planes; the daring escape from a speeding airplane, 3,000 feet above earth by a parachute jump; the stupendous night air raids conducted by Lieutenant Mark C. Hogue, R. M. A., and his fliers; and the glorious and bewildering displays of fireworks from moving planes.

NORUMBEGA PARK—"Tess of the Storm Country," with its quaint humor, thrilling episodes, and appealing pathos, pleased an unusually large audience at Norumbega Park last evening, and from all indications will prove one of the most popular of the productions of the Liberty Players this season. Two performances are given daily in the big, cool, open air theatre, swept by the breezes of the beautiful Charles River.

"BUDDIES" COMING TO THE PARK SQUARE

The initial attraction for the new season at Selwyn's Park Square Theatre will be that firm's new musical comedy, "Buddies," which will open on Tuesday evening, August 12. The comedy was written by George V. Hobart with special musical numbers by Melville Gideon. There will be a trinity of distinguished stars heading the cast, Donald Brian, Peggy Wood and Wallace Eddinger. Seats will go on sale Monday, August 4.

Pemberton Inn

The older the Summer grows the more popular grows Pemberton Inn, the de luxe dining place of the South Shore. By boat and by auto hundreds speed daily to this unique resort, the only place in Greater Boston offering such a variety of novelties, exclusive surroundings and superlative edibles.

Six Months' Pay for Returned Soldier Is Demanded

The American citizen who contrasts what his rich country has done for the returned soldier with what Australia has done will find it hard to repress a blush of shame.

Begin with the matter of service pay. We paid each private soldier $30 a month and each corporal $36. Australia paid $43.50 and $72.20 respectively.

In allowances for dependents and in insurance against war hazards, the two countries are about on a par.

It is in the provision made for the unharmed soldier after his return that Australia puts us in the shadow.

We give him $60 and a ticket home—not enough to buy the new clothing he will need in civil life. Then we leave him to find a job if he can. With the result that throughout our country thousands of returned soldiers are still idle and penniless.

Australia, on the other hand, gives to each returned veteran as much land as he can use to advantage and starts him off with a $3,750 loan at 3½ per cent.

If he is not trained to use this land, the Australian Government will train him and pay his expenses and the allowances to his dependents while he is being trained.

As long as a year ago the 5,000,000 people in Australia had paid out for the welfare of their soldiers and other purposes of war relief through public and private channels an amount estimated to equal $225 apiece—this being exclusive of all land gifts, loans, allotments and coming pensions.

Similar liberality for the United States would have equalled our total net public outlay for war-making.

It is, of course, understood that our Congress, when it finds a convenient time, will vote a sum of money (the figure in the bill now pending is $14,000,000) to place a number of returned American soldiers on homesteads.

The armistice was signed more than eight months ago and this legislation has not yet become law.

But even when it shall have become law it will take care of ONLY A SMALL FRACTION of the brave lads whom we used to fight our battles.

Meanwhile shall thousands of these be left destitute?

The position of the Hearst newspapers is that every soldier, sailor and marine upon being honorably discharged from the United States army and navy should AT ONCE receive, not merely the pitiful $60 now given, which doesn't replace the doffed uniform, but SIX MONTHS' PAY, so that, in addition to buying the new clothing he needs, he will have a moderate capital on which to search for civil employment.

This demand of the Hearst newspapers expresses what we know to be the will of many millions of patriotic Americans. We believe that it is the will of ALL patriotic Americans, and we renew the urging of its consideration by the Congress.

In the meantime, America which is too poor or too busy to do decent justice to our soldiers, is told that she is expected under the League of Nations to protect England and Japan in the possession and the oppression of peoples they have stolen in violation of the principle of the right of self-determination and must help to finance France when France will not compel her war profiteers to pay a decent share in the cost of the war.

Let the enlisted men form their own organization and protect themselves from the indifference and neglect of men who never heard the old axiom that justice, like charity, begins at home, and who do not believe that the great American nation ought to be at least as much concerned with doing justice to her soldiers as the little British colony of Australia, and who ought to know that there is more Bolshevism and anarchy in a League of Nations established to protect England and Japan in their robberies of whole nations and in giving international bankers high money commissions on international loans arranged under the League of Nations than in doing justice to our soldiers and the standing aloof from the treacheries and immoralities of the old world imperialism.

Have You a Little Bonfire Under Your House?

Copyright, 1919, by Star Company.

You have read recently distressing news of a man and wife burned to death in their house in the country. The fire was sudden, the man and wife were killed by the rush of smoke.

It is safe to say that the house destroyed with its owners was fully INSURED, but the lives of the owners were not PROTECTED because the premises probably were not properly inspected. The owners or their agents had been careful about insurance, to save money loss, but careless about inspection to save loss of LIFE.

You should make it your business, for your sake and the sake of your children, to look carefully UNDERNEATH your house or the apartment house in which you live every few weeks.

Nine times out of ten you will find in the cellar magnificent materials for a first-class bonfire. Old pieces of furniture which should have been thrown away are stored there.

Paper that will be "used some day" to wrap something up is stored with the pieces of furniture. Bits of wood that will "come in handy" for kindling, perhaps pasteboard boxes and bundles of excelsior are added to the assortment of inflammable material.

Such a bonfire is simply waiting for a match, a spark from an [illegible] wire, or a cigarette carelessly dropped, and the rest of the [illegible] told in the newspapers, "the fire while they slept."

Ye TOWNE GOSSIP

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

By K. C. B.

THERE WERE six of us.
AND WE'D been for a swim.
AND HAD sat around.
TILL OUR suits were dry.
OR NEARLY so.
AND SOMEBODY said.
"LET'S GO for a drive.
BEFORE WE get dressed."
DOWN TO the lake.
AND WE put them on.
AND GOT in the car.
AND WENT up the road.
THAT LEADS from the lake.
TO THE main highway.
AND TO those we passed.
WE LOOKED all right.
WITH OUR raincoats on.
FOR THE day was dark.
AND IT looked like rain.
BUT WITHIN the car.
OUR LEGS were bare.
AND THE six in the back.
AND THE four in front.
LOOKED OUT of place.
AND SO we drove.
AND HAD gone an hour.
AND HAD started home.
AND WERE bowling along.
THROUGH A little burg.
OF A dozen homes.
AND WE picked up a nail.
OR SOME such thing.
AND THERE came a report.
AS THE tire died.
AND FLATTENED itself
AND WE had to stop.
AND TWO of us.
GOT OUT of the car.
IN OUR quite bare legs.
AND WENT to work.
AND THOSE who passed.
LOOKED DOWN on us.
AND SOME of them laughed.
AND OTHERS were shocked.
FOR THEY couldn't know.
THAT BENEATH the coats.
WERE BATHING suits.
THAT EVEN the censors.
OF NANTASKET Beach.
WOULD HAVE let go by.
AND WHILE we worked
FROM THE village below
THE SMALL boys came.
AS THEY always come.
TO A car in distress.
AND ONE of them.
I FEEL quite sure.
WAS A city kid.
FOR THE things he said
ABOUT MY legs
(IF YOU'LL pardon me).
WERE THE sort of things
THAT A country boy.
WOULD NEVER have said
AND THEN the whole bunch.
CLIMBED UP on the bank
AND THE city boy.
COMPOSED A song.
WITH THE last two lines:
"THE MOSQUITOES 'LL get you.
"IF YOU don't watch out."
AND THEY sang it through
A SCORE of times.
BEFORE WE were finished.
AND ON our way.

I THANK you.

Circling Cape Cod Bay.
Woods Hole over to Yarmouth shore,

After they've seen Cape Cod?

SILENCE IS OFTEN REAL SYMPATHY

If you have a friend who has suffered some bereavement, don't mention the fact or anything which will bring thoughts of it.

You may think that your words of condolence were not as impressive as you would wish, but is it not cruel, merely for your own satisfaction, to open up wounds made by death?

Don't be thoughtless in such matters.

Above all things, don't be the low, mean, hypocritical kind, bringing up matters which touch the heart of the afflicted one just to see how the person will act.

There are some who delight in an act of this sort to be able to have a "subject of gossip."

There is a time when words of sympathy should cease.

Continued too far, these words stamp those who utter them as insincere or, in some cases, malicious.

The true friend seeks to make others more comfortable and happy. Are you a true friend or hypocrite?

GIRLS OUGHT TO FOLLOW MOTHERS' ADVICE

By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow

LIKE Joe Bowers of the old song, most fathers and mothers come from Missouri.

They want to be "shown"—especially regarding any young man who betrays an interest in their daughters, or, vice versa, in whom their daughters betray an interest.

And very, very often the daughters cannot understand why the parental thumb should be so ruthlessly turned down upon some young prince of romance who to their mind is a sort of a Palm Beach composite of Romeo, Richard Coeur de Lion and John Barrymore.

Apparently Papa and Mamma are particularly obdurate and pigheaded this Summer; for I am the recipient of numberless letters setting forth the complaint of their rhymeless and reasonless interference. The course of true love is being woefully hampered, and its banks are strewn with broken hearts.

The complainants, I may add, are invariably under twenty, their average age being probably about seventeen. At random I select a few samples to indicate the general trend of their communications. One girl writes:

Mother Objects

"About a year ago a young man came into my life. Mother allowed me to keep company with him all that time, but now wants me to give him up, which would be very hard for me as we are very fond of one another. She is very good to me and loves me as I do her, and I have always obeyed her; but it seems to me she is unreasonable in this.

"He is a very good young man, and the only possible objection she can offer to him is that he belongs to another nationality from our own. She kept me in all day on Sunday in order to prevent me from going out with him.

"I am only eighteen and do not want to get married yet, but neither do I want to give him up. What would you advise me to do?"

And here is another from one who signs herself "Brokenhearted and Lonesome":

"I have known a fellow in the United States Navy for the past two years and love him as though he were my God. But there is a fence between us. My mother objects to my marrying him and sometimes even to my going out with him, because she says sailors are not respectable and have a wife in every port. Also he has been known to go out with a married woman who, I think, is in love with him, although he assures me there is only a brotherly and sisterly affection between them, and that I am the only girl he really loves.

"I have a good home and a wonderful little mother, who is the best woman in the world, but I am not happy. I have had many chances to marry good and respectable fellows, but I have eyes for no one but my sailor boy. My thoughts are always with him, and I wonder continually if he really loves me or not. I have tried to forget him, but I can't—I can't."

"Dislikes His Hair"

Another writes: "Being a young girl of seventeen, I naturally enjoy company, and have become interested in a young man three years my senior. He has asked me to go out with him many times, and on five occasions I have done so without mother's consent, although with father's approval. This makes mother very angry and she will not speak to me for weeks at a time. The young man in question comes of a good family, has no bad habits and is a gentleman in every way. Mother's only objection to him is the color of his hair, which is red."

I know a man who almost unerringly can tell the business or vocation of any person he meets. He denies that this power is in any sense a gift, but ascribes it wholly to close and intelligent observation. He says that every profession or business stamps the man who follows it with certain indelible type-marks—involuntary tricks of manner, voice, gesture or expression—which will almost inevitably give him away.

Useful Work at Home
The Tax Outlook
Another War Soon?
Japan in Peru

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1919.)

Troubles at home, six and a half billions; forces and colored people. Hannibal and the Japanese. When, if ever, the supreme intelligence of this country has finished regulating all Europe and the outside world, there will be found plenty of useful work here at home. The United States also has problems that demand attention and wisdom, fighting problems and feeding problems. Meanwhile prosperity reflected in the stock tickers, beautiful peace artistically painted in the peace league do not quite cover the nation.

Secretary Glass says that next year, 1920, the revenue of the country will meet the expenses of the country; it will not be necessary to sell bonds. Revenue and expenses will amount to six billions and a half, says Mr. Glass. That means six and a half billions of taxes. Perhaps the Republican Congress will manage to cut the bill down, so many eminent Republicans, being heavy income tax payers, will not have to pay so much. Also a new Republican high tariff may help, first, by letting foreigners that send us goods contribute to government expense; second, by keeping out foreign work and increasing home work.

Six and a half billions for regular government expense, without war, is considerable, for a country that once shivered because Congress spent one billion in two years. The sum amounts, however, to only sixty-five dollars a year for every man, woman and infant in the country. The nation can stand it for a while if the prosperous continue to pay their share in income tax.

There is, however, in Mr. Glass' prediction a large if. The country can get along on six and a half billions next year, IF nothing unusual happens. But it would be most unusual if nothing unusual did happen.

Germans who have had their share of war are wondering who will be next and, according to an intelligent world correspondent in Berlin, Germany looks for the next war in the east soon, with this country and Japan involved and not on the same side of the fence.

"If that should come about, Mr. Glass' six and a half billions would jump to fifty billions in short order. Looked up in the "peace" league are a dozen agreements that might cost this country fifty billions and many men. Last time the number of Americans killed was small for a world war, fewer than one hundred thousand, so the country did not worry much about the money. Just especially as wages jumped. Next time we might not be so fortunate in men killed and the people might not stand it so well.

Japan buys eight hundred thousand acres of land in Peru to start a Japanese colony. In that purchase may come an early test of the question, "Did the Monroe Doctrine die when the peace league was born?"

With three to six men working intensively on each acre, in Japanese fashion, the colony in Peru would be a good start toward realization of Japan's determination to colonize this continent and overflow from Asia to America. The United States will have to reach a decision on that point. And that decision might change Mr. Glass' financial figures, Japan paying cash for South American land, and more cash in the right people for private South American adherents, could do many things in South America and Mexico, if she got a good start and bred on the continent two or three million Japanese fighters.

Including among fighting matters that need attention at home are the disturbing race riots that become dangerously frequent.

And most disturbing and dangerous for the colored races is news that two thousand negroes in New York cheered a colored speaker's suggestion that the negroes should solve their difficulties by force.

A number of colored clergymen present at that meeting know, if their more ignorant followers do not, that force cannot settle any problem for them. The odds are too great, in number and in ability. Besides, real force resides in government, and this entire government is white.

Constructive planning of industrial arrangements on a wide scale, with consideration on the side of the whites and patience on the side of the colored race, will help a difficult situation.

Whites should have the decency to remember that the colored race is here by no choice of its own. Every man and woman of colored blood is the descendant of a black slave, stolen from his home and sold here by a white man for profit. Next to the Indians that once owned the country, the colored people, brought here by force and by whites, have the strongest claim on justice and protection. They did not ask to come; the whites dragged them here.

But the dangerous enemy of his race is the colored man that advocates force as a remedy. There is such a thing as being outnumbered beyond any hope.
